

Ramp hit by barge

A barge struck and damaged the Venice public boat ramp at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Mayor William M. Ebersoldt reported to the Venice City Council at its bi-weekly meeting Tuesday night.

A towboat, the Delmar Jeager, captained by Al Weber, lost its power. This permitted a barge to move toward and against the dock area on the shore a quarter-mile north of the city-owned McKinley Bridge. Owner of the vessel is the Northern Towing Co. of Alton.

"Barges did heavy damage during the high water of 1973 and caused us a lot of extra problems," the mayor recalled.

"I'm going to contact the barge line and see about getting the damage repaired. We've got to put a stop to river traffic tearing up the city dock. No estimate of the damage to the ramp was made."

The Coast Guard was notified by city officials and it noted that generator trouble was blamed for the mishap. The captain already had sent for help, it was determined.

Political mergers are rare

(17th of a series on politics in Madison County)
Mergers of politically-controlled governmental agencies have been rare in Madison County and Illinois, partly because such "marriages" usually involve the loss of elective offices and hiring control.

An exception was the sharp reduction in school districts here and throughout Illinois, much of it during the 1964-65 administration of former State Superintendent of Public Instruction George T. Wilkins Sr., a Granite Cityan. Increased efficiency and economy are thought to have resulted from the consolidations.

Another exception was the merger of the cities of Granite City and Nameoki, initially

Fuel costs hindering portion of treatment

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
Incinerator equipment at Granite City's secondary sewage treatment plant is the best that can be installed and "works beautifully," City Council members were informed Tuesday night.

But, the aldermen were told, circumstances have changed since the plant was designed that no longer make it economically feasible to burn fuel oil in the disposal of sludge that remains after the treatment processes.

Aaron Pierson, vice-president of M. W. Architects & Engineers, St. Louis engineering firm that designed the treatment plant, told the council that with its present arrangement to haul sludge to a landfill the city should use that more economical system of disposing of sludge, at least for the time being.

In a discussion that lasted nearly an hour, Pierson, who was accompanied at the council session by Ray Hecker, resident engineer of the treatment plant project, emphasized that there are no mechanical difficulties or inefficiencies of installation in the incinerator equipment at the treatment plant.

"The incinerator is the best that can be installed and is installed just as we would design it if we were doing the job right now," Pierson said.

"The problem lies in the different volume of volatiles now in the sludge which prompts it from burning itself. It can be burned, but the amount of fuel oil needed to burn it is impractical."

A request that M. W. engineers explain the cause of a shutdown of the incinerator and the inefficiency of burning operations was made by the Granite City Council three weeks ago after treatment plant operators asked finance officials for a 1977-78 budget of $209,000 for fuel oil, an increase from $48,000 worth of fuel oil used last year.

Some aldermen also became concerned over special arrangements contained in a new three-year garbage collection contract approved a month ago, in which Milam East Division of SCA Services agreed to a specified schedule of free hauling of sludge from the treatment plant to a landfill as part of the contract agreement.

Pierson said that at the time the plant was designed in the early 1970's, there was a question as to whether the city should proceed with plans for a 22 million gallon per day plant because Corn Sweeteners had purchased the former Union Starch Co. facilities from Miles Laboratories, Inc.

"After some study it was decided that it would cost as much to reduce the design of the plant than it would to go ahead and accept a bid that had been made," Pierson related. "We decided to go ahead with the bigger plant."

At a time when Corn Sweeteners was operating here, design specifications indicated a sewage flow of about 12 million gallons per day, of which about 700 parts would be sludge of high organic content, Pierson said.

Corn Sweeteners later discontinued operations, and as a result today's sewage flow to the secondary treatment plant is approximately 7 million gallons a day with about 200 parts sludge, he noted.

Pierson said that the heavier sludge content would burn itself once it was ignited, but that the lighter sludge volume of lower volatile content would need a constant application of fuel oil to consume it by burning.

"At today's high fuel oil prices, it is being alleged that Stover, while a store manager for Bert's Showrooms, opened the Granite City store, 1910 Delmar Ave., after hours on at least two occasions while others removed television sets."

Bond was set at $5,000 on each count by Circuit Judge Harold Clark.

Indictments issued charge Stover with taking a 13-inch television set from the Granite City store June 1, and Gavan and Stover are accused of removing a color TV June 13.

All four are charged with removing a console television from the store June 17, and with taking another console from the store June 21.

Gavan also is charged with an unrelated count of theft for allegedly taking $500 cash June 17 from Canteen Foods and Vending, Alton, where Rainey was employed.

Granite City police say they have recovered nearly $10,000 worth of stolen television sets, citizens' hand radios, car stereos and component stereo equipment during the investigation.

They decline to comment at this time on where some of the items were recovered.

Callis appointed to Port board

Lance Callis, a Granite City attorney, was appointed by Mayor Paul Schuler Tuesday night as a member of the Tri-City Regional Port District Board.

Callis, who serves as corporate counsel for the city of Granite City, will fill the Port District Board post formerly held by Clyde Boyd, alderman of the Third Ward.

Boyd's term as a Port Board member expired June 1 this year. Board members are appointed to three-year terms. Callis has law offices at 2038 Edison Ave. He is a graduate of Granite City High School and St. Louis University Law School. He lives at 3136 Harvard Place.

On and off the record 6 identical papers litter yards

Six identical papers in some yards and none in others were alleged by Venice city officials Tuesday night as they relayed complaints received about free distribution publications littering lawns.

Mayor William M. Ebersoldt instructed City Clerk Lloyd Patterson to write and ask for altered procedures.

Alderman Hank Svezia

commented, "I have been getting complaints about persons throwing three, four, five and six papers per yard. I think we have enough of a problem with litter without this. They're getting to be a real nuisance."

The mayor responded, "We'll write and ask for more discretion in such distribution. I also have been hearing complaints."

Levee change Dec. 1

Change in control of the Metro-East Sanitary District from St. Clair County to Madison County is expected to become effective Dec. 1 after appointment of a third Madison County member to the district's five-man board of trustees, it was reported by political leaders Tuesday.

Procedure for placing three Madison County trustees on the sanitary district board was being studied this week after determination of the district's assessed valuation in the two counties showed Madison County this year has $2.2 percent of the district's total valuation of $488,305,135, or $254,812,545 of the total.

Nelson Hagauer, chairman of the Madison County Board, said that he understands the appointment of a trustee will be made by the County Board in November. The appointee will be a Democrat to fill the roster of three Democrats and two Republicans established by state law under which the district was reorganized last year.

Two Madison County trustees now serve on the sanitary district board, having been appointed last year by the County Board under the old system which gave Madison County two board trustees and St. Clair County three trustees. They are Russell Robinson, Democrat of Granite City, whose term expires in November 1980, and Leonard Hylla of Madison, Republican member whose term will expire in November 1978. Robinson now is chairman of the sanitary district board. St. Clair County trustees now include John Erhardt of Washington Park, Omar Brumitt of Cahokia and Robert Eastern of East St. Louis.

Under the makeup of the sanitary district board, Eastern's term is to expire in November this year and Madison County member appointed at that time will replace Eastern on the board of trustees.

Expect more indictments

A Madison County grand jury Monday evening returned indictments against four men allegedly involved in thefts last month from Bert's Audio-TV Showrooms in Granite City and Alton. Another special grand jury session has been called for Monday, Aug. 22, at which additional indictments may be issued.

Indicted on charges of theft were Kenneth W. Stover, 20, Alton, four counts; Gary L. Rainey, 20, Alton, two counts; Robert M. Goyan, 30, Godfrey, four counts, and Mark J. McManis, 22, Godfrey, two counts.

It is being alleged that Stover, while a store manager for Bert's Showrooms, opened the Granite City store, 1910 Delmar Ave., after hours on at least two occasions while others removed television sets.

Bond was set at $5,000 on each count by Circuit Judge Harold Clark.

School tax rates could rise by 20¢

The Granite City Board of Education tentatively adopted Tuesday night a $23,006,458 budget for July 1977-June 1978, a $136,487 increase, and estimated that its combined tax rate may rise by 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The $8,279,648 levy extension for 1976-77 is likely to rise to $9,225,344, boosting the overall school rate from $3.5610 to $3.7674.

State aid changes and the inflation trend are cited as creating a financial squeeze, requiring some borrowing to meet operating costs after next year's avoidance of tax anticipation warrants.

Placed on public display starting tomorrow, the new budget will be the subject of a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6, at the board office, 20th and Adams Streets. Final enactment by the board will follow the hearing.

New budget figures totaling $23,006,458, compared with year-ago appropriations amounting to $22,889,971, follow:

Education $19,156,033, down $157,247 from $19,313,280 in 1976-77.

Operations, building and maintenance $1,277,035, up $91,035 from $1,186,000.

Bonds and interest $1,092,260, up $5,220 from $1,087,040.

Transportation $335,630, up $132,980 from $202,650.

Illinois municipal retirement $645,500, up $44,500 from $601,000.

The $136,487 net increase compares with rises of $320,000 for the 1976-77 year, $600,875 for the 1975-76 year, and $2,082,327 for 1974-75.

The projected tax impact has been based on an estimate that Community Unit School District Nine's assessed valuation for the 1977 tax year (collection in 1978) will total $245 million, compared to the actual 1976 tax year assessment total of $232,509,074.

The specific new valuation total will be determined later this year by township and county officials.

Amounts to be raised by property taxes, constituting the proposed new levy requests, are as follows:

Education fund a $6,247,500 proposed levy ($5,738,323 extended a year ago).

Operations, building and maintenance $918,750 ($894,073 extended a year ago).

Transportation $294,000

Municipal retirement $705,000 ($642,190).

Bond and interest fund levy $613,094 ($744,950).

Life safety fund levy, $122,500, new this year.

And working cash levy $122,500, also new.

Study federal job barriers for women

Mrs. Nona D. Fuller of Granite City attended a week-long mid-summer Federal Women's Program seminar held in Washington, D.C. She served as a representative of the headquarters, Army Troop Support and Aviation Material Readiness Command, St. Louis. A 30-year career federal worker, she is presently serving as a supply specialist in the Directorate of International Logistics.

Previous experience as an Equal Employment Office counselor and secretary for a federally-employed women's organization equipped her for her participation in the seminar.

According to Mrs. Fuller, one of the major objectives of the conference was to expand employment and advancement opportunities and to reform policies which serve as barriers to women.

One of the speakers noted that there are 600,000 women in federal jobs. However, there are only 200 women in the high grade area of GS-16-18 positions. In the low grades GS-14, 76 per cent are women.

She lives at 1 Miami Court, Granite City, with her husband, Alfred, and children, Jeanne, 17, Anne, 14, Karen, 11, Kathy, 10, and Alfred, 16.

Local 4-H members win modeling awards

Appearance, modeling ability and fit of garment were the requirements met by 46 4-H'ers who received clothing awards at the Madison County Fair last week.

Only girls who received an "A" rating on construction at the 4-H Achievement Day July 8 modeled their garments at the county fair.

Each night, Monday through Thursday, girls with equal sewing experience competed, beginning with the second year on Monday evening and concluding on Thursday night with those girls who had been sewing five or more years.

Each evening, ten girls were chosen and ranked first, second, third, fourth and fifth, plus five sixth places. In addition to these more experienced entrants, two first-year girls were awarded bracelets each night, Monday through Wednesday.

Out of 150 girls who modeled throughout the week of the fair, the following were selected as the top 46 models in the county: Monday night winners, girls with only two years of sewing experience, were: first place, Marsha Lindsay, Troy; second, Peggy Dettmer, Marine; third, Sherri Hagler, Highland.

Wednesday's top ten models, all girls with four years' experience, were: first place, Gerri Rogier, Highland; second, Anne Bjornson, Highland; third, Tammy Leroy, Highland; fourth, Lois Juergens, Troy; fifth, Karen Geiger, Alhambra; sixth, Evelyn Rogier, Marsha Jo Potthast and Carmen Leroy, all of Highland; Karen Voliva, Pocahontas, and Mary Byron, Edwardsville.

The winners on Thursday night who had at least five years of sewing experience were: first, Cindy Hoffman, Pierron; second, Karen Schmitt, Dorsey; third, Janice Craig, Worden; fourth, Mary Hodapp, Marine; fifth, Marilyn Pirok, Highland; and sixth, Linda Gruber and Patti Haarmann, Edwardsville, Janelle Malan, Highland, Shelly Ernst, Pocahontas, and Merla Hansel, Troy.

Girls receiving bracelets for first year sewing were Nancy Jacober and Angie Rudolph, Highland; Shari Shimkus, Bethalto; Karen Juergens, Troy; and Jean Helms and Cathi Gagliardo, Edwardsville.

Course on rescue of trapped victims

Training of emergency medical technicians will begin at Belleville Area College this fall. The EMT program includes the first standardized course in rescue extrication in Illinois, training personnel in properly freeing trapped accident victims.

The 60-hour program is funded through a highway safety grant from the Illinois Department of Transportation, Division of Traffic Safety. Certified IDOT instructors will teach the course. Graduates from the program will be certified as emergency medical technicians by the department.

BAC is one of ten Illinois community colleges to offer the emergency medical program during the fall and spring semester, according to Dr. Louis Robling, project director at Belleville Area College.

Approval was granted by the state.

Federal funds for highway safety programs are available to Illinois under the Federal Highway Safety Act of 1960. For additional information concerning the program, Quad-Cityans may call 235-2700, extension 267. Fall semester registration at Belleville Area College is Aug. 15, 16 and 17.

Flood maps set base elevations

Copies of a federal Flood Insurance Study and flood insurance rate maps for Granite City which designate base flood elevations in various parts of the city were placed on file by the Granite City Council during its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The study informed council members that the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 is intended to assure an "equitable balancing of all the interests involved in the setting of flood elevation determinations."

A letter from the Federal Insurance Administration of the Department of Housing and Urban Development noted that the study was intended to notify the community of the base flood elevations that the city adopt or already have in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance program.

Granite City already has adopted an ordinance establishing regulations to comply with the federal requirements.

Sept. 6 deadline to seek use of school facilities

Groups wishing to use Granite City School District facilities for football, soccer and other fall activities are being urged to notify the district by letter before Sept. 6 of their requests.

B. J. Davis, superintendent of schools, noted this week.

Davis said all requests to use "district" fields and facilities should include the name and sponsor of the organization wishing to use the facility, and the location, date and time needed.

Access rights issue in overpass project

A request for a meeting by representatives of Sidener Supply Co. with city engineers to discuss the company's access rights to 19th and Adams streets in connection with construction of the proposed 19th Street overpass was referred by the Granite City Council Tuesday night to the city engineer and the city attorney.

A spokesman for the firm told the council that the company believes the city is in error if it assumes that the company's access to 19th Street can be relocated on Adams Street.

In a letter to the council, Ray Carleno, general counsel for the company, said, "From previous public hearings, I understood that if the city proceeded with an overpass, the overpass would effectively close off all right of access onto 19th Street as it presently exists."

"Should this occur, Sidener Supply Co. will have no legal rights of access or ingress and egress to and from the property which it now occupies."

City Engineer Monroe Brewer told council members that he and engineers of M.W. Architects & Engineers which will design the overpass met Tuesday afternoon with Carleno to discuss alternatives. Brewer asked the council delay any discussion on the matter for the time being. The council referred the matter to Brewer and City Attorney George Filcoff.

GC elementary schools will register new pupils Aug. 22

Registration for new students will be held in Granite City elementary schools Monday, Aug. 22, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Junior high school students new to the district may register from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. beginning Wednesday, Aug. 10, and continuing through Aug. 24 in the school they will attend. Earliest possible registration is being advised by school officials to permit class scheduling.

High school registration continues at both the North and South high schools through Friday, Aug. 12. Registration is being held Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. There will be no registration between Aug. 12 and Aug. 22 in the high schools.

Those who have questions about where to register their children may call the School Board office, 675-5600, Supt. B. J. Davis reports.

Any child who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1977, is eligible to enroll in kindergarten. A birth certificate must be presented at the time of the registration in the Granite City Community Unit District Nine.

Illinois law states that no child may enter school for the first time without the immunizations for whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis, rubella (measles) and rubella (three-day measles), school authorities note. The only exceptions are for religious or medical reasons.

Physical examinations are required also of all students entering the fifth and ninth grades or attending school in Illinois for the first time. Forms for physical examinations may be picked up at the Board of Education office, 20th and Adams Streets, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Parents of new students are being urged to meet the immunization and physical examination requirements prior to registration.

Registration may not be completed until either all medical requirements have been met or written evidence of a doctor's appointment is presented by the parent.

The superintendent of schools asks that all students entering the district for the first time be registered before the first day of school.

"It is a mutual interest of the parent, the child and the school that every child be placed as early as possible in a program which will best meet his or her particular educational needs," he has commented.

Supt. Davis also urged that anyone knowing of new families in the neighborhood to encourage them to register their children on the dates indicated above.

Only students new to this district or who have not previously been in school need to register. Kindergarten children who registered last spring need not register again.

Girl injured by railroad torpedo

Sharon Kendall, 13, of 2619 W. 28th St., was injured when she threw a brick on a railroad torpedo three feet away from her and it exploded at 2:15 p.m. Monday.

She suffered multiple abrasions to both legs, her upper chest and her upper right arm and was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital for surgery. She told authorities that she, her 12-year-old brother, Dale, and an eight-year-old neighbor were walking along the railroad tracks behind the A. O. Smith Corp. plant and found several of the explosive devices that railroads set on tracks to warn engineers to be alert for construction or other problems ahead.

She said they picked up the devices and took them home, where they detonated some on the concrete sidewalk.

She was injured when she got too close to one while throwing a rock at it.

NEW LIGHTING. The Tri-City Area YMCA has completed the first step in major building improvements with the addition of new mercury-vapor lighting in the gymnasium. The 10 new fixtures replace 15 incandescent fixtures with 10 times the candle power at one-third less the operating cost. Other improvement plans include gym painting, increasing senior citizen space and short range goals of becoming a downtown fitness center.

Malnutrition Rotary topic

Prevention of malnutrition is the purpose of the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program with 1,300 persons participating in the Quad-Cities.

Frank Signaigo, co-ordinator of the WIC program in the area, spoke to the Tuesday noon meeting of the Granite City Rotary Club in the YMCA.

According to Signaigo there are one million people nationally in the federal WIC program.

After qualifying for the program, which is based on size of family and income, certain foods are taken to the home. Persons in the program must requalify every six months.

According to the director there presently are about 200 on a waiting list.

Most of the referrals are made through the township offices. The program locally is handled through the Co-Ordinated Youth office.

Randall Irwin manager of the Thomas and Mercer Mortuaries was inducted into the Granite City Rotary Club.

Repair shores damaged by ice

Ice damage to Mississippi River works from Cairo, Ill., to Cape Girardeau, Mo., will be repaired under a contract to be issued by the St. Louis District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Bids from four companies were opened last week for rebuilding stone dikes and shoreline revetments that incurred damage during the ice jams and low flow periods last winter.

That combination of conditions was said to be one of the most severe in years by some rivermen.

The apparent low bidder for the one-year contract was Patton-Tully Transportation of Memphis, Tenn., with a bid of $730,510, according to William O. Couble of Granite City, chief of the Corps' Procurement and Supply Division.

The contract calls for the placing of approximately 200,000 tons of stone to stabilize the structures and banks.

Swarms of grasshoppers this year

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT Area Advisor on Horticulture

This year is a great year for grasshoppers. Swarms of grasshopper nymphs are common in ditches and pastures.

Your garden, flowers and small shrubs can be a comfortable hideout for a ravenous crowd of hoppers.

When dry weather spoils the food supply in nearby fields and ditches, a steady stream can keep you supplied with fishing bait or trouble.

If you aren't a fisherman, you can easily control grasshoppers in your garden and flowers by spraying with carbaryl (sevin) or malathion.

One application will control a variety of other insects as well as grasshoppers to maintain attractive foliage and normal growth.

Another application may be necessary if hoppers begin to migrate. Concentrate both applications on the edge of the garden and spray nearby weeds, fences and ditches.

Early August is a tough time to control bagworms with insecticides. Some of the largest bagworms are starting to go dormant. Those nearing maturity are resistant to normal treatment.

If the bagworms are still twitching as they feed and seem smaller than most, you can still get good control using bacillus thuringiensis.

This spray material composed of dormant bacteria is effective on late season insects that swallow the bacteria while they eat the leaves.

Hand-picking is your last resort if some are already dormant. Burn or bury the bags you pick to prevent their migrating to other plants.

Brochure on 'TV and your children'

"Upon entering school in grade one, the average child has viewed 4,000 hours of television. By graduation from high school, the average student has viewed 15,000 hours of television and has spent more time in front of the TV set than in the classroom." —Dr. Joseph M. Cronin, Illinois superintendent of education.

In an effort to help parents and teachers deal with television in a more effective, positive way, the State Board of Education is making available a brochure, "Television and Your Children."

It is available from the ETV-ITV Section of the Illinois Office of Education and provides positive approaches to improving the television viewing habits of children.

"The brochure contains helpful information on what parents can do, what teachers can do and what teachers and parents can do together," Supt. Cronin believes.

In addition, the Illinois Office of Education has produced a 17-minute videotape based on information contained in the brochure. The videotape has been converted to 16 mm color film kinescope for easier use by Brent-Teacher Association units and other concerned parent groups which have minimal access to videotape playback equipment.

Broadcast-quality videotape copies will be offered to the public and commercial television stations in Illinois without restriction for duplicating the programs on the users' tape.

Also available is a new dramatic film, "TV Dinners." The 16 mm film videotape centers around a 12-year-old boy, who is in trouble at school but cannot divert his family's attention from television long enough to tell them about it. His frustrations build and result in the realization that television has been controlling the family life.

The Illinois Office of Education will provide extensive promotion of both of these programs.

Copies have been sent to the Central Education Network for distribution within its region. Both programs will be shown at the National Association of Educational Broadcasters convention this fall in Washington.

For further information, Quad-Cityans may write to: Illinois Office of Education, ETV-ITV Section, 100 N. First St., Springfield, Ill. 62777.

Levee change

Actualy, Eastern served only since late April because the appointment of a fifth board member by St. Clair County became involved in a feud between St. Clair County political leaders who could not agree on an appointment for the vacancy.

Erhardt's term is to expire in November 1979, and Brumitt's term is to expire in November 1981.

The switch in control of the sanitary district, formerly organized as the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, will mark the first change since 1907 when the levee district was established by state law to control interior drainage in the two-county area embraced by the district.

The district includes East St. Louis, Stites, Canteen and Centerville Townships in St. Clair County, and Granite City, Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau Townships in Madison County.

Majority control of the district board is determined by which county has the higher assessed valuation, the county having the largest valuation names three members of the five-man board which gave control to that county.

Madison County officials had expected the valuation to reach a turning point last year, but a slight edge permitted St. Clair County to retain control.

This year, however, assessment figures gave a $21 million majority of the valuation to Madison County.

RECOVERING AT BARNES Meri "Sparky" McDaniel Jr., 28, of Rural Route Two, Granite City, is recuperating in room 7125 of Queeny Tower, Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, from an emergency appendix operation July 26. His family noted visitors and cards would be welcome.

Hodges in suit for decision on GC pension

Former Granite City Police Sergeant Kelly Hodges filed suit Monday in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville seeking a writ of mandamus directing the trustees of the police pension fund to render a decision whether he is eligible for his pension.

In the suit, Hodges notes he started with the police department Aug. 8, 1955, and retired in October 1975 after being injured on duty.

He contended the pension fund trustees held a hearing on his pension request Dec. 6, 1976, but have failed to render any decision since that time, despite demands from Hodges' attorneys.

The suit also seeks reimbursement of court and attorney costs and relief as the court sees proper.

E. F. Hinton dies at 88

Elroy F. Hinton, 88, of 3712 Fair Oaks Drive, a resident of Granite City for the past 50 years, died at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mr. Hinton was born in Birmingham, Ala., and resided in Pittsburgh, Pa., before moving to Granite City.

He retired in 1937 as an engineer for the New York Central Railroad after 30 years service. He later was employed as a toll collector on the old Chain of Rocks bridge.

He was a member of Local 1436, United Transportation Union at Pittsburgh.

Mr. Hinton is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Nina Hocking and Mrs. Laura Rollins, both of Granite City, and nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements are given in today's obituary column.

considered in the 1930s but not completed until 1949.

The "courting" began because Granite City was bordered on the east by Nameoki and had no room to grow. It had heavy industry and ample assessment in relation to its population. Nameoki had many homes but little commercial or manufacturing property.

Some of the officials did not want to give up their jobs, nor did many citizens want to give up their area's name and traditions.

Merger reached the election stage in September 1949 but lost by a 3:1 margin in Nameoki while carrying by 87 votes in Granite City. Approval by both was needed.

By an 802-663 vote, Nameoki changed from a village to a city in March 1949.

Lloyd Larsh, who had campaigned successfully for mayor on a slogan of "out of the marsh with Larsh," was among those Nameoki residents who began to see that merger advantages might outweigh disadvantages.

By 792 to 661, Nameokians in October 1949 gave their authorization for annexation by the expanded Granite City.

Afraid of being "gobbled up" by the expanded Granite City, Pontoon Beach residents later created a village government.

Talk of a possible merger of the Madison and Venice school districts has been heard from time to time but not recently.

The teachers were honorably dismissed under state law which requires that non-tenured teachers be given sufficient notice if they are not going to be hired in the following school year.

Since at the close of school last year it was impossible to determine the staff requirements for this school year, the board followed its practice of the past few years of dismissing all non-tenure teachers and then rehiring them as openings became known.

Jerry Brown, administrative assistant-personnel for the school district, noted that more of those who have not been rehired may be by the second week of school, when it can be determined where there are overcrowded classes which could be split.

Honorably dismissed teachers rehired by the board Tuesday night were: Pam Bischof, 4025 Gaslight Walk, Pontoon Beach, to teach English at GCHS South; Ron Coleman, 2445 Woodlawn Ave., to teach physical education at Emerson School; Cheryl Compton, 3017 Ramona Drive, to teach vocal music at Coolidge Junior High School; Alicia Hendrickson, 2125 Gillespie St., to teach vocal music at Prather Junior High School.

Betty Hicks, Glen Carbon, math at Prather; Deborah Holt, 4025 Gaslight Walk, Pontoon Beach, health at GCHS North; Warren Jones, 3214 Maryville Road, math at GCHS South (one year only); Joe Mercer, 2163 Cleveland Blvd., math and science at Prather; and Jill Thompson, 3865 Wabash, special education at Grigsby Junior High School (first semester only).

Rehired teachers who will go on tenure this year are Mary Morrison, 27, of 3045 Maryville Road, special education teacher at Wilson School; and Deborah Milton, 2725 Iowa St., science at McKinley School.

New teachers hired by the board were James McDaniel, 2037 Clark Ave., to teach science at South, and Lori Houser, 29 Bermuda Lane, to teach math at North (first semester only).

The board accepted the resignations of Lois Erickson, a counselor at Coolidge who is moving from the area, and Mary Gensert, South math teacher, for personal reasons.

Leola Oberholzer was granted approval to give up her extracurricular assignment as a coach for girls' fall, winter and spring sports at Coolidge.

Leaves of absence were granted until Feb. 3, 1978, to Hance Klaus, South speech teacher, and until the second semester of the school year to Joyce Jellen, upper primary teacher at McKinley School.

The board met in executive session to discuss unsuccessful attempts to fire one tenured teacher. Despite proper grievance hearings, court fights and appeals, the courts held the board had insufficient evidence to fire the teacher.

"The effect of the Appeals Court ruling on behalf of the teacher is that we can not fire a tenured teacher, no matter how bad, unless we find something like a morals charge," B.J. Davis, superintendent of schools, concluded.

"We now we would probably lose the appeal, but we wanted to make a point at the highest possible level that we can not fire a tenured teacher, no matter how bad we feel she is, and we feel that is wrong and not in the best interests of the children," one board member commented.

an ordinance creating a three-way stop at Stearnes and Lynch avenues was adopted by the Granite City Council Tuesday night.

The ordinance fixes a penalty of from $10 to $100 for violations.

In another traffic control action, the council approved an ordinance prohibiting the parking of any vehicle more than 18 feet in length on West 22nd Street from Rock Road to Leyden Avenue.

The Tri-City Regional Port Authority is made up of seven members, four of them appointed by the governor and three who are appointed to represent Granite City, Venice and Madison.

Board members now serving as governor appointees are Henry D. Karandjef, Von Dee Cruse, Burton C. Bernard and Avery Schermer.

Cruse's term also expired June 1 this year, but a successor has not yet been named by the governor. Under the authority's by-laws, a member continues to serve until an appointee is named to succeed him.

Terms of Karandjef and Bernard are to expire June 1, 1978, and the term of Avery Schermer, a governor appointee, expires June 1, 1979.

The three Quad-City area appointees now include Callis, Mayor William Ebersold of Venice and John Belloc of Madison. All of their terms will expire June 1, 1980.

11 GC teachers rehired

The board has eliminated six teaching positions for the upcoming school year and the remaining 17 positions from which teachers were dismissed are "questionable" as to whether they will be rehired. He said some of the dismissed teachers already have found jobs elsewhere, so the number left without teaching assignments will be small, if there are any.

Busy year for Cahokia Mounds historic site's Museum Society

The Cahokia Mounds Museum Society, 7850 Collinsville Road, feels it has accomplished much in the year since its formation. It is successfully operating the Cahokia Mounds Museum shop and editing a newsletter, Cahokia. It has sponsored a summer Archaeological Field School, and has reprinted one of the first books on Cahokia by P.F. Titterton.

The mounds were built by Indians here centuries ago. The Society plans to entertain senators, representatives and other people in the area, along with their families, Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Milton Stehman, treasurer of the Society and also president of the Friends of the Collinsville Historical Society, says, "We are convinced that legislators and others in the state would know and understand archaeology, they would realize how important this mysterious historic site is and give it the attention it deserves."

The "Rediscover Cahokia" day will be held on the grounds of the historic site but will not be open to the general public.

The audience will be greeted by Joseph Abell, president of the Society, and the site superintendent, Joseph Webb. Then it will hear the story of Cahokia by nationally known archaeologists, see a slide program, take a bus tour of the site and dig, be entertained by Indian dances, and partake in refreshments.

The lead speaker will be Warren Trafton, executive director of the Convention and Visitors Bureau of Greater St. Louis.

The Society hopes the event will whet the appetites of the guests for more information. President Abell, an engineer for Monsanto Co., said this week, "We are working for more state support, and formed our society to help the state and site for the benefit of the Cahokia Mounds."

The group's story is an old one—supporting and working for Cahokia Mounds. In the early 1920s, a party of 100 St. Louisans, members of the Cahokia Mounds Association of St. Louis and the Town Club, traveled to Cahokia Mounds in two special cars over the East St. Louis and Suburban Railroad to meet a committee of the Illinois state legislators and endeavor to interest them in a plan.

The Illinois Assembly was asked to pass an appropriation of $250,000 to buy what was known as Monks Mound and 200 acres of surrounding farm land in the American Bottoms.

Forty women of the Town Club climbed up Monks Mound "with considerable difficulty," it was related in newspaper accounts.

Members of the appropriation committee present were Senators Paul W. Abt, E. St. Louis, Clayton C. Pervier, Sheffield, and J.G. Bardill, Highland, also. Representatives H.O. Murphy, Pinckneyville, C.H. Reithimer and N.B. Flagg, Edwardsville, C.A. Purdum, Marshall, G.W. Harris, F.A. Leonard, W.M. Brown and Thomas A. Boyer, Chicago, and James W. Renzler and John T. Desmond, East St. Louis.

Others in the party were owner Fred Ramey and Senators F.C. Campbell, Xenia, P.J. Carroll, Chicago, Otto C. Sossemann, Carlinville, Clifford Quisenberry, Lincoln, and N.J. Flagg, Moro.

First transfer of the property was made on June 4, 1929, and T.T. Ramey purchased the mound and farm from D.T. Page of St. Louis in 1984.

Among Collinsville citizens who have promoted the Cahokia Mounds have been Miss Anne LeW Williams, Oscar Schneider and Irving Dillard.

While Miss Williams was president of the Collinsville Women's Club, she traveled to Springfield to lobby for Cahokia Mounds. Schneider gave his prized collection of artifacts to the museum, and Dillard helped edit a book about the site.

In the 1960s, Nelson Reed of St. Louis met a group of legislators on top of the mounds at an "impressive gathering, it is being recalled. Other active supporters have been Frank Acardi and Frank Joachim, shaler of Collinsville, leaders of Indian dancing groups. Last summer, the Collinsville

Chamber of Commerce voted to give a repayable grant to the Society for purchase of the Museum shop stock from the Illinois State Museum Society. On Saturday, Mrs. Roberta Price, an officer of the Collinsville Chamber of Commerce, and George Sherman, Chamber manager, will accept a check for the first of three payments toward the grant. In a new McGraw-Hill book written by John Pfeiffer, entitled "The Emergence of Society," it is asserted that "Cahokia could be a major monument, as impressive as Tikal or Teotihuacan." But there is little construction going on and nothing much to see—only a few mounds that look like natural hills." The Cahokia Mounds Museum Society, like Pfeiffer, is not happy with the progress but the members pledge that they are "only beginning the fight to attain importance for the Cahokia Mounds historic site in Illinois."

School tax

Assuming that the district's valuation does rise about $11.7 million, to $245 million, the levies as currently listed would result in a tax rate of $2.50 for education (compared to $2.466 at present).

The operations-building-maintenance rate would be 37.50 cents (36.30 cents) and interest 33.19 cents (33.76 cents) and municipal retirement 28.78 cents (27.62).

Transportation would account for 12 cents (11.62), the life safety fund five cents (none) and the working cash fund tax rate five cents (none).

"This year, the budget presented to the board represents an imbalance between the revenue and expenditure sections. As the board is very much aware, we are in a trying financial period," Supt. B. J. Davis said Tuesday.

"The budget represents input from the board, administration, and the various levels of staff. I believe all have been extremely diligent in their input and request."

"This district has and will experience a declining pupil enrollment. This has a negative effect on our financial position."

State aid, which supplies over 50 percent of our revenues, is based on pupil attendance. The fewer pupils the less money generated.

"When coupled with our nation's inflationary economy and the state's inability to fully fund the aid formula, our financial situation becomes an even greater dilemma."

"We are further hampered in reducing the drastically increasing costs in that expenditures do not decline at the same rate as revenue, i.e., a school could lose 40 pupils and a staff position could not be reduced, since the pupil loss would be spread over a seven-year grade span (K-6)."

"And the loss in any one grade would not be great enough to effect staffing. Utility costs remain the same in a building regardless of attendance."

"The board is fully aware of the reductions we have been able to make in all levels of staff and in equipment and materials purchased."

"Director of Business Affairs Tully A. Heubner's detailed analysis of the various funds shows the problems we face and the steps that have been taken to minimize as much as possible the financial crisis."

"Mr. Heubner is to be commended for his work in bringing the vast amount of data together that makes the presentation of this budget possible. I believe the budget is realistic and as accurate as possible, given the many variables in developing a budget, and recommend tentative adoption by the board."

Heubner told the board, "This year, our 1977 assessed valuation has been estimated at $245,000,000. This is an increase of $12,496,926 over the 1976 assessed valuation of $232,503,074."

"Last year's assessed valuation was $11,134,138 more than 1975. If the actual assessed valuation is more than the one projected, the proposed rates will drop proportionately."

"However, if the actual assessed valuation is less than projected, our levy will be reduced to the amount that can be produced by the maximum tax rates applied to the actual assessed valuation."

"This year, in addition to the funds which we levied for last year, we have included two additional proposed levies—the levy for the Life Safety Code of $122,500, which is included in the Building Fund, and a Working Cash levy of $122,500."

"Since we are levying the maximum rate for the Education Fund, the Operations, Building and Maintenance Fund, the Transportation Fund and the Working Cash Fund, these rates could not be increased, but could possibly decrease. There could also be a possible loss of revenue in these funds if the actual assessed valuation is less than projected."

"Rates for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund and the Bond and Interest Fund could either increase or decrease, depending on the actual assessed valuation for 1977."

"In the Education Fund, the income section of the budget reflects a projected net revenue increase of $166,099 on a cash basis over last year. On the accrual basis, the increase projected is $624,595, due basically to an increase in our projected revenues from taxes."

"If valuation is less than projected, this revenue would be decreased proportionately. The increase projected on the accrual basis, we are projecting to be available until the 1978-79 school year."

"Revenues from the state and federal government have been projected, based on the most current information we have available."

"State aid has been prorated for $9,132,004 per child, which we estimate will provide $9,518,242. This is an increase of approximately $80,911 over the state aid received in 1976-77."

"However, the financial condition of the Transportation Fund, the actual state aid to be used in the Education Fund, is $19,156,000, or $169,089 less than last year's."

"The planned revenues in this budget, along with the cash balance as of the first of the year, won't meet the expenditure budget. These items mean that tax anticipation warrants will have to be issued during the fiscal year."

"The expenditure appropriations in this year's Education Fund in the tentative budget amount to $19,156,000. On an accrual basis, a decrease from last year's budget of $157,247. But in addition to these planned expenditures, we have outstanding tax warrants against this fund of $370,000, which will have to be paid at the end of the fiscal year."

"At the end of this tentative budget has been prepared, there has been no settlement with Granite City Teachers' Local 743 and Service Employees International Union Local 98."

"A tentative agreement with the various crafts unions has been reached; however, any pay increases are not included in this time. We have included in the appropriations budget only that amount currently obligated under present working agreements."

"For administration, the total increase in the budget is $2,300. This is due to the contractual service area and the miscellaneous area."

"Instruction has an increase of $44,601. This is due to salary increases currently obligated under present working agreements. In addition, this takes into consideration a reduction in staff, and a decrease in some of the items which had a sizeable surplus in last year's budget," Heubner said.

"Attendance costs show a decrease of $94. Health has a decrease of $3,974."

"Operations shows a decrease of $123,153. This is due, for the most part, to the transfer of water and telephone expenditures from the Education Fund to the Building Fund."

"Maintenance lists a decrease of $4,920, while food charges have an increase of $134,400, due to projected increases in our health insurance program, and an increase in the package and Workmen's Compensation insurance."

"We have included the same amount of money for summer school as we did last year. This amount was not spent."

"However, if summer school funding is made available, and the board decides to once more offer this program, monies could be available for the month of June 1978."

"The athletic program, has an increase of $9,210, due to an increase of $16,000 for coaching salaries for girls' athletics. In past years, this expenditure has not been included in this item."

"Textbooks for sale or rental show a budget decrease of $2,865."

"For the lunch program, there is a budget decrease of $92,000, due to a reduction in the allocation for purchase of food. The salaries section of this budget also has been reduced. The figures currently used are based on our past year's actual operating expenses which were considerably under the amount budgeted."

"Capital outlay decrease of $124,050 is due to a moratorium on capital outlay purchases."

"The only amounts budgeted in this area are for the cost of the building trades house, and $20,000 included in the miscellaneous area for any emergency-type purchases which might be necessary."

"In provision for contingencies, a total of $350,000 is shown. This is less than two percent of the education budget. We could budget as much as five percent in this account."

"In the Building Fund, on the accrual basis, we are projecting revenues of $918,750 from our maximum tax rate of 37.5 cents per $100 assessment when applied to our projected assessed valuation of $245,000,000."

"In addition, we have included a levy of $122,500 for Life Safety. These combined give us a projected tax revenue of $1,041,250 on the accrual basis. This amount, however, could be decreased if our valuation is not as high as projected."

"On the cash basis, we can expect tax revenues of approximately $831,000. This projected revenue does not reflect any significant increase from our revenues in 1976-77."

"Our expenditures, budgeted at approximately $1,277,035 as compared to $1,186,000 last year—an increase of $91,035. This is due to transferring projected expenditures of $114,000 for telephone and water from the Education Fund to the Building Fund."

"We have renewed our application for construction funds for the Granite City High School North vocational addition with the Public Works Act. Revenues in this budget are not projected in this budget for new construction in our budget."

"If the new building is not constructed, the current cash on hand and the estimated revenues from taxes will, in all probability, meet our projected expenditures. However, our cash balance will decrease from $226,000 to zero."

"If a new building is constructed, in all probability tax warrants would have to be issued in this fund."

"No levy is filed by the District for the Bond and Interest Fund since the expenditure budget is not projected. This year, the county clerk estimates that the district will be approximately $813,094."

"This year, we applied and received a grant from the state which provided $131,587 to apply toward retirement of debt. This year, we applied for the same grant."

"To date, we have received notification from the State Board of Education that our application has been approved in the amount of $266,906. However, we have not received official notification from the Capital Development Board relative to the final approval of this grant."

"We expect this approval prior to the time the levy is filed, and our tax levy reflects this abatement."

"Our tax rate in this fund last year was 33.76 cents and it should be approximately 33.19 cents this year. However, this rate could fluctuate depending on the actual valuation."

"The Transportation Fund is in poor financial condition, and is one that, in my opinion, will continue to decline unless revenue relief is provided by the state."

"Projected revenues from taxes and state transportation claims cash will meet the projected expenditures."

"In order to meet our expenses, I have included a decrease from the State General Distributive Fund in our revenues. Our planned revenue this year on a cash basis is $87,400."

"The projected expenditures this year have been increased $153,568. This is due to the new transportation contract which has an increase of approximately 27.8 percent over transporting students, and 51.6 percent for charter trips such as field trips, athletics, band and speech."

"On the accrual basis, we are projecting revenues of $772,800, exclusive of any state distributive aid. We are projecting revenues from state claims on the accrual basis at $443,800 as compared to $277,400 on the cash basis."

"This increase is due to projecting our increased costs into the current formula and prorating it at the same rate it is being prorated this year."

"This money, of course, would not be available until the 1978-79 school year, and could be revised significantly, depending on the state aid claim to be filed at the end of this year."

Heubner continued, "For the Municipal Retirement Fund, each year our rate increases and the amount of salaries on which we have to pay increases."

"This past year, our cash deficit in this account was $42,307. The planned revenue on the cash basis for this year is $641,000 as compared with projected expenditures of $645,500."

"Since our deficit is carried into this year's budget, it appears that our deficit this year will be approximately $45,000."

"As you know, the levy we make this year will be for cash to operate next year."

"Therefore, I am recommending an increase in this year's transportation levy of $98,500 over this year's projected expenditures. We hope this increase will provide sufficient revenue to meet expenses for the 1978-79 year and eliminate the $42,000 deficit."

"In summary, the budget form included for filing is as developed by the school district business office. This form follows the basic pattern of the standard state budget form, but does deviate from it in that provision is made for an accrual accounting procedure in addition to the standard cash flow form."

"The 1977-78 tentative budget as presented is based on presently known factal information."

"Revisions and adjustments will be necessary if there are any major changes in our planned revenues and expenditures prior to the adoption in September."

Commentary — Enact energy laws in haste and U.S. taxpayers can repent at leisure

The following Wall Street Journal commentary was written in the editorial debate in this week on energy legislation:

Speaker Tip O'Neill intends to get the Carter energy package passed this week even if it means keeping the House in session 10 hours every day. No wonder he is in a hurry. Congress begins its August vacation Friday and if the House postpones the vote and takes a month for sober reflection, it surely will kill the energy scheme.

Seldom has such a legislative mishmash gone so far. It is not overly pessimistic to estimate that it will inflict a half trillion dollars in unnecessary costs and taxes on Americans over the next eight years.

It will certainly increase, rather than decrease, U.S. dependence on imported fuel. It will throw the electric utility industry into such a state as to practically guarantee frequent power shortages in the 1980s.

And yet Tip O'Neill wants the House to hurry. But best we seem too harsh on the Speaker. It should be noted that speed at the expense of sanity has characterized the energy program from the start.

A White House energy team, employing a dubious set of economic theories, threw it together in a scant 90 days. The resulting confusion was such that administration officials initially quoted widely varying figures on how much tax they planned to levy on industry and how much oil and gas they hoped to save as part of the program to convert industry and electric utilities to coal.

No one asked whether it was humanly possible to get an extra 600 million tons of coal in the time allotted. Or how much it will really cost to equip the coal-burning utilities with scrubbers. Or what you do with all the sludge and ash that will be the limestone for scrubbing?

The proposed $1.75 per thousand cubic feet price ceiling that now will apply to both intrastate and interstate sales of gas was plucked out of thin air.

Only later was an unconvincing rationale offered.

Gas men say that since it is at least 25 cents under the present marginal price for gas, it will mean less, not more, natural gas production.

The House has done little better. Ways and Means voted to apply the "gas guzzler" tax on big cars to "retiring" the national debt, not bothering to explain how you start retiring a debt before it stops growing.

The master work in terms of speed was Tip O'Neill's hand-picked ad hoc Energy Committee.

He loaded it with the likes of Henry Reuss and John Moss, who adore the kind of political manipulation of economic resources the package so richly embodies.

The committee didn't lay a finger on all the absurdities. In the best tradition of South Boston politics, the Speaker truly "delivered."

Almost anyone could make a rough calculation of the costs this slipshod work will inflict on an already wavering economy.

But for a detailed analysis we turn to Milton R. Copulos of the Heritage Foundation. His cost figures are in billions, for the eight years 1978 through 1985, unadjusted for depreciation of the dollar:

Taxes on oil, less rebate, $56.1; taxes on natural gas, 44.2; gasoline taxes (new 4-cent tax plus extension of present 4-cent tax), 8.8; gas guzzler tax, 10; coal taxes, 1.18; added cost of imported oil, 57.8; added federal income taxes caused by energy inflation, 98; utility coal conversion costs, 50.6. Total $77.31.

It is possible to quibble with some of these numbers. The existing gasoline tax, although due to expire is not an added cost.

It may be reaching a bit to include a number that represents added personal income taxes as taxpayers move into higher brackets because of inflation attributable to the energy package.

And if utilities and industrial plants convert to coal quickly enough they will escape some tax penalties.

But the numbers are probably conservative, particularly since they make no allowance for generalized inflation.

There also is no allowance for the amounts consumers could save, mainly through not having to switch to more expensive fuels, if Congress deregulated natural gas prices. Half a trillion dollars as the cost of the energy package is not unreasonable.

What will all that money buy? Maybe some aid for troubled federal welfare and Social Security programs.

A little help for mass transit, although judging from the fantastic costs of the recent mass transit projects, that's no bargain. A banana certainly for folks who make scurbers of sell coal or limestone. Additional contentment for the Arabs.

It will also buy a greatly expanded energy bureaucracy and just quite possibly, a whopping big recession that will sweep Mr. Carter and his fellow Democrats out of office.

Tip O'Neill has every reason to be worried about the possibility Congress will give the package more thought than it has so far.

Moderate hikes for GC school lunches

In an attempt to reduce operating losses in the lunch programs of the Granite City School District, the Granite City Board of Education Tuesday night agreed to moderate increases in the price lists for plate lunches and many entrees.

"It's still the best buy in town," Superintendent B. J. Davis commented as he noted students will be able to purchase complete plate lunches this school year for 50 cents in the elementary schools and 60 cents in the junior and senior high schools. Each price is 5 cents higher than charged last year.

"We are keeping the cost of the plate lunches low to encourage the students to buy them and get a better meal," O. L. Overhuler, director of the cafeteria program, explained. Some of the entrees were increased either 5 cents or 10 cents, but none of the increases exceeds 10 cents, he noted.

Higher food and labor costs were cited as justification for the price increases. Plate lunches for adults increased from $1 to $1.25 at both levels, since there is no federal reimbursement for lunches served to the adults.

Overhuler also noted the prices of numerous entrees were kept the same, but increases were made primarily when justified by higher costs to the district for those foods.

Examples are that baked beans with two weiners increased from 50 cents to 55 cents, but baked ham remained at 60 cents, the same price it has been for years. Barbecued beef and ham remain unchanged at 55 cents, but a sloppy joe will increase from 50 cents to 55 cents. Potatoes and gravy will be 25 cents this year, up a nickel.

Ten cent increases were approved for bologna (now 50 cents), a coney island dog (50 cents), a hamburger on a bun (50 cents), soup and crackers (50 cents), turkey and dressing (70 cents), Yon Masetta (60 cents), fish sticks (50 cents), and other items.

Overhuler said he hopes the increases, coupled with a $15,000 increase in federal and state reimbursements, will help the lunch program to "break even" in this school year.

He noted the previous plate lunch price had not changed in Allegations by one of the men charged name a sheriff's deputy as having purchased about $1,800 worth of equipment for about $270. The deputy says he didn't know the items were stolen and the men he purchased them from promised to return the next day with the proper papers.

The items allegedly purchased by the deputy were a color console TV set and a combination radio and CB radio unit. Both have been recovered by police.

Allegations of lesser involvement by another deputy, Stover, have been handled. Stover may have handled stolen items, also are being explored.

Sgt. Robert Hertz, administrative aide at the Madison County Sheriff's Department, said Wednesday the department won't comment on its investigation of the allegations during the grand jury's consideration of the case.

He noted that an internal investigation is continuing and said all information is being turned over to the Madison County state's attorney's office.

Asked if a deputy has been given a lie detector test, Hertz said he has not.

Actions in the grand jury chambers are secret.

Sources close to the investigation indicated Stover pleaded the Fifth Amendment before the grand jury Monday on the advice of his attorney, Public Defender Paul Riley. Stover has made public statements contending he felt intimidated into opening the store for the others.

State's attorney's office officials also declined to comment on the investigation.

A source commented privately, "Monday we went after those we believe were directly involved in removing items from the store. On Aug. 22, we will go after others and the grand jury has been made aware of all of the allegations in the case."

The source also said that State's Attorney Nicholas G. Stover "has pledged that everything will be given to the grand jury on everyone involved, no matter what position they hold."

Illinois State Police investigators (formerly Illinois Bureau of Investigation agents) are believed to have been called into the investigation.

Suffers head injury in fight

Frank Pace, 16, of 1239 Klein St., Venice, is reported in satisfactory condition at Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, where he is being treated for a skull fracture.

The youth was hurt early this week during a fight and was taken first to St. Elizabeth Hospital and admitted for observation, then transferred later to the St. Louis Hospital.

Ronald A. Morris, 18, of 1224 Douglas St., Madison, has been released upon posting $300 of a $3,000 bond on a felony complaint charging aggravated battery.

Morris was arrested Monday and appeared before Associate Circuit Judge George Moran Jr. who set the bond.

Pace and several friends were in the St. Mark's church parking lot when a pickup truck pulled into the Tri-City Grocery lot, and the two groups began throwing bottles, police said.

A citizen informed police of the fight which had moved across the street to the parking lot of the former Station barbecue stand.

Police said they found young Pace lying on the pavement after allegedly being struck in the head with a board approximately one by six inches and four feet in length.

The youth's mother, Mrs. Bertie Pace, said that although her son cannot have visitors, cards may be sent to him in Room 408 at Firmin Desloge Hospital.

Tavern burglary

A coffee-maker, two trunks containing antique bottles, three lawn statues, an armchair and a card table and four chairs were stolen from the basement at Miss Kitty's Tavern, 916 Niederrhein Ave., between 1 a.m. and 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Entry was gained by forcing a two by four board from brackets securing the rear door.

Youth charged after tire cut

Ronald Shands, 17, of 528 Chouteau Ave., was charged with criminal damage to property Tuesday after allegedly slashing a tire on the van of Frank Marsala, 1707 Collinsville Ave., in the parking lot of Charlie's Restaurant, Madison Avenue and Nameoki Road, at 10:05 p.m. Tuesday.

Marsala said he drove the van onto the restaurant's south parking lot and talked to several youths in the lot before going home.

His brother, Carl Marsala; and Carl's date remained in the van. Carl Marsala reported hearing a hissing sound and looking out to see a youth leave the side of the van.

He then discovered a tire had been slashed. The youth got into a Chevrolet Vega with other youths and they drove from the scene.

A short time later, the Marsala brothers located a car that was the same description as the Standard service station, Nameoki and Fehling roads, and called police. Carl Marsala identified Shands as the one who allegedly slashed the tire and he was arrested.

An attendant reported two youths went behind the station and threw something away before police arrived, so officers checked behind the building and found a knife.

David K. Patterson, 19, of 2128 Derby Ave., was found to have an empty knife case on his belt, so he was taken to the police station for questioning, but was released without charges being filed, officers said.

As Patterson was leaving the police station, he allegedly used profanities twice against officers, so he was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

'77 growing season a problem for gardeners

By CHRIS DOLL, Area Garden Advisor
The growing season of '77 has caused problems in some crops in some gardens.
The most common problems recently have included poor pollination of sweet corn, brown ends on peppers, no set of peppers and tomatoes, wilting of vine crops, wormy cabbage, and browning of apples.
Poor pollination of sweet corn can be caused by: (a) heat destroying pollen or unusual blooming patterns; (b) drought at pollination time; and (c) lack of sufficient plants to produce enough pollen.
This year, much of the problem of blank kernels and lop-sided ears is due to the heat and there is no control.
If the tip of the ear is blank, it generally means that insufficient moisture was available at pollination time. The variations in temperature and moisture make for difference between plantings. But in most cases, single row or narrow plantings have had problems this year due to the shortage of pollen.
Brown ends on peppers are caused by the same conditions that cause blossom-end rot of tomatoes. Stress conditions of excesses in temperature and moisture prevent proper cell division in the end of the fruit, and dead areas develop.
When you see the problem, it's too late to correct. So, follow a good preventive program of growing in good soil with good culture. Provide needed mulching and water.
Peppers and tomatoes have done well so far this season, but there may be a short crop a month from now due to the poor fruit set during the hot days of July.
Temperatures in the 90-degree range and up prevent fruit set of these crops. Since tomatoes require about 45 days to reach maturity, there could be a void in harvest about mid to late August.
There isn't any control, unless the weather can be changed.
Vine crop wilt has been common and could have been prevented by using either wilt-resistant varieties and/or following a good spray program. Remember these factors when gardening in 1978.

Early ears are now ready for harvest. Some gardeners let pears ripen on the tree while others pick and ripen them in the basement. The latter method is preferred for best fruit quality. This is true for both early and late pears.
Experience is the best teacher for picking pears for ripening.
The guidelines that experienced growers use are: (1) when healthy fruits start to drop; (2) when there is a change of flesh and ground color from green to yellow; and (3) when the stem separates easily from the twig or branch. When these conditions are present, pick by grasping the fruit firmly and twist or roll it to make the stem separate from the tree without breaking the stem or spur.
Gently place the picked fruit in a box or basket to prevent bruises and cuts. Imperfect fruits and those that have dropped should be kept separate from perfect fruits and used for processing.
Pears picked before fully ripe should be ripened at temperatures of 60 to 70 degrees F. (basement temperatures). This will result in optimum quality and smoothness of flesh.
They will turn yellow and soft in a few days.
If you want to keep pears for a longer period of time, store the fresh picked fruits in the refrigerator. Allow them to ripen in a warm room for a few days before eating.

Miss Byrnes said deputy registrars from her office will be available at the registration centers which will be conducted countywide in various locations through the rest of the month of August.
Quadrant City centers will be conducted as follows:
Granite City—American National Bank, 4 to 7 p.m., Aug. 12; Kroger Store at Nameoki Village, noon to 7 p.m., Aug. 12;
Navy Gunner's Mate. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.
Guided missiles. Rocket launchers. Advanced gunnery equipment. These are the weapons of a modern Navy. And the world of a Gunner's Mate.
If you have mechanical aptitude, the Navy will train you as a Gunner's Mate. You may operate missile systems, supervise gun crews or control explosives. If that sounds like the kind of adventure you're looking for, contact:
Carl Titz P.O. 2nd Class 1202 Nidderingham Granite City—677-0990

STORE BURGLARIZED
Bank's Dry Goods store, 1104 Logan St., Venice, was burglarized this week. Items reported missing were seven rings valued at $5 each, four watches valued at $40 each and $3 in change. Fry marks were found around the deadlock on the front door where entry and exit were believed to have been made.

Humor, hazards in state a century ago

Living in Illinois a hundred years ago presented many hazards and some incidents that were humorous, according to reports in the newspapers of 1877 in the Illinois State Historical Library. There were also happenings that could be duplicated today.

On the lighter side, the Rock Island Argus carried the story of a lively stable keeper who owned "a fine lot of coach dogs. These dogs are white, with black spots all over them, and are noted for their docile, not to say cowardly, dispositions."

Every time the lively stable man took his carriage out, the dogs followed, only to be attacked by the "town dogs" and "as easily overcome as a lot of sheep."

The "lively stable man stood this as long as he could" and then one day he bought a large white bulldog. He kept the bulldog at the stable until it had become "thoroughly acquainted with the coach dogs."

The bulldog was then sent to the barber's shop, and black spots were neatly painted or dyed all over him, so that he looked like a veritable coach dog, with a somewhat short nose and elongated lower jaw.

The next time the carriage went out, all the dogs followed and the town dogs launched their customary attack, "thinking they would have their usual sport and victory."

"But in this they were mistaken. The bulldog waded in, and the way the hair and sausage-meat flew was a caution. Since that time, the coach dogs have been let alone."

Uncle Sam Artus was known in Quincy as the "monarch of fishermen" but the Daily Herald published a story of how he was "deliberately swindled out of a ten-dollar bill."

Uncle Sam was challenged by a man named Pearroll to a contest to see who could catch the larger black bass in a day's fishing.

They set out in the morning, each with a partner in his boat and a shotgun "to shoot any duck that we come across."

When they returned in the evening, Uncle Sam had what he called a "reg'lar whale." But Pearroll insisted that his fish was larger and they agreed to weigh the catches. Pearroll's was heavier by half a pound and Uncle Sam paid off.

A part of the agreement, however, was that the loser would get the fish. When Uncle Sam cut open the winning bass, he found "morn' two pound" of shot in him. That ar Pearroll had poured all his infernal duck shot down the throat of that ar bass to make him weigh.

Pearroll left Quincy for Chicago the next day and was never seen again.

The fisherman was not the only villain in 1877 Illinois, however.

The Springfield State Register reported the story of an Olney railroad worker whose job kept him away from home six days a week.

While he was gone, his wife was being entertained by a local doctor. At the same time, the railroad man was visiting a widow in Bridgeport.

All went well until the widow sued the husband. The railroad man's wife assured him of her lasting affection in spite of all, lovingly forgave and induced him to sign over his property in her name, to checkmate the Bridgeport widow. He did so and his spouse then eloped with Dr. Finch.

Railroading had other hazards than matrimonial, and rarely was there an issue of a paper that did not report a worker's accidental death. And many women died in home accidents.

The Rock Island Argus told of one who was killed "by the explosion of a can of kerosene she was using to kindle a fire."

The Cairo Bulletin reported a woman died when "the lamp blew up" as she was blowing down the chimney to put it out.

The Springfield State Journal carried a long story of the wife of "the well-known soda water manufacturer" who perished when her clothing caught fire as she was "engaged in boiling soap in the yard of her residence."

A non-fatal incident, reported by the Galena Weekly Gazette, involved a woman who refused to pay her dentist the final $5 for a dental plate.

The dentist "placed his hand in the lady's mouth and forcibly possessed himself of the teeth."

He was "fined $10 and costs."

Power lawnmowers can hurl 'bullets'

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health
Did you know there are more than 45 million power lawnmowers in use in the United States? Sometimes, early on a weekend morning, it sounds like they are all in use in my neighborhood.

As power mowers become more and more popular, the number of injuries from these mowers seems to grow in direct proportion to the number of machines in use.
The greatest percentage of power mower injuries is attributed to rotary mowers.
Health experts estimate that,

each year, between 60,000 and 80,000 Americans are injured in power mower accidents seriously enough to require hospital emergency room care.
These injuries include cuts, punctures, fractures, am-putations, loss of sight and other permanent disabilities.

Nearly 70 per cent of mower injuries are caused by direct contact with the mower blade.

The remaining 30 per cent are caused by foreign objects thrown by the machine, usually by the blade, such as nails, rocks, wires, metal and glass.
The blade tips of a power mower move at more than 200 miles an hour, and can hurl projectiles at speeds in excess of 35 feet per second, which approaches the speed of a bullet.

Manufacturers have been making considerable effort, through design and engineering features, to make the mowers as safe as possible without reducing their cutting performance.

But it is up to those of us who use the mowers to learn how to do so safely. Too many injuries occur through carelessness and simple misuse or abuse of the equipment.

The Illinois Department of Public Health has some recommendations that may help reduce your chances of suffering a power mower injury.

First, read the operator's manual from cover to cover.
Learn where all the controls are located and how to operate them.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Proper maintenance of your mower is important. Check the machine out completely before you do any mowing, especially the fuel. Gassing up a hot or serious explosion.
Second, "Police" the area to be cut, making sure there are no objects lying around that can be thrown out by the blades.
The thinnest items, such as pieces of wire, can be lethal.
Keep children and pets away

Thurs., Aug. 4, 1977 Page 21

from the mowing area.
When you are ready to begin mowing, keep your feet clear of the mower at all times while starting it up and operating it.
Be sure the mower does not tip or roll during the starting operation.

Never unplug the discharge chute when the engine is running. This is one of the most common causes of serious mower accidents.

Also, be sure of your footing and balance while mowing on grades or inclines. Mow steep slopes sideways.

Mowing a steep slope up and down can invite trouble. You can slip down onto the mower, or the mower can slide down onto you.

Power mowers are designed to be pushed, not pulled. Many injuries have been caused when someone inadvertently pulled the mower over his foot.

Wear sturdy shoes while mowing, and never leave a running engine unattended.
Remember, too, that mowing a lawn can be a tedious task. Be well rested and alert when tackling the job, and do not over-exert yourself. Fatigue has been a contributing factor in many power mower accidents.

Public Health's office of Consumer Product Safety, can be

REINHARDT—Realtor
Sells—BETTER LIVING!

If Corinthians 12:10 "... for when I am weak, then am I strong."

God hath chosen the foolishness to confound the wisdom of the wise. To say that we are strong when we are weak is a choice example. However, we must remember that Paul the apostle had just heard from Jesus and was told that His strength was made perfect in weakness. My grace is sufficient for thee Paul, Jesus said.
That one statement from our Lord gave Paul all the encouragement that he needed for he now stated, "I take pleasure in my infirmities, reproaches, necessities, persecutions, and distresses!"

If Christ is the center of your life then He speaks the same words to you as to Paul. If you feel you have gone as far as you can go with your burdens, that you are too weak to go on, repel! Now His strength is your strength.

Receive it, Today.

Growing diversity, flexibility of career education options in state

Vocational education programs approved by the State Board of Education continue to offer students an "alternative." The technological society of today increases the number of different kinds of jobs or career choices available. The computer revolution, for example, has produced an overwhelming demand for specially trained people—a need not anticipated a generation ago, State Superintendent Joseph M.

Cronin commented this week. "To keep pace with the ever-changing requirements of the world of work, and the closely-linked shift in peoples' attitudes and ambitions, vocational education programs are taking on new dimension. The pulse of people and society constantly reflect, changing educational needs," he added. Dr. Cronin noted that vocational education is responding to such needs by offering services for people of all ages in all communities of the state in the following groups:

(a) Persons in high school.

(b) Persons who have completed or discontinued their formal education and are preparing to enter the labor market.

(c) Persons who have already entered the labor market but need to upgrade their skills or learn new ones.

(d) Persons with special educational and other handicaps.

(e) Persons in postsecondary institutions.

(f) Persons in the following special groups:

(1) Those who had solely been homemakers but who now, because of dissolution of marriage, must seek employment.

(2) Persons who are single heads of households and who lack adequate job skills.

(3) Persons who are currently homemakers and part-time workers but who wish to secure full-time jobs.

(4) Women who are now in jobs which have been traditionally considered jobs for females and who wish to seek employment in the job areas which have not been traditionally considered job areas for males. And men who are now in jobs traditionally considered jobs for males and who wish to seek employment in the job areas which have not been traditionally considered job areas for males.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

To serve these groups of people better, Illinois' vocational education is placing emphasis on:

Depressed areas of the state where there are both high unemployment and low-income families.

Services to areas that can't pay their share to equalize educational opportunity for everyone.

Open enrollments so students have the chance to choose their own career path—by offering options, not prescriptions.

Overcoming sex discrimination and sex stereotyping in program offerings.

Providing more flexibility for meeting individual needs, e.g. counseling, instructional programs, and services.

According to Dr. Cronin, "New directions in vocational education will continue to emerge in response to the needs of people."

"Working together, the educational and employment communities can maximize available resources to unify this effort to better serve the taxpayer."

Barks' Legion district planning convention here

William A. Barks has been elected to the office of commander of the 22nd District, American Legion, Department of Illinois. A longtime Legionnaire, he has held many offices prior to being elected to this office.

He has held the posts of adjutant, junior vice-commander, senior vice-commander as well as commander of the American Legion Post 113 at 1825 State St., Granite City.

Offices that he has held in the Madison-Bond County Council are senior vice-commander and commander.

Prior to being elected to commander of the 22nd District, he held the offices of junior and senior vice-commander of the district.

Barks in 1950 was inducted into the U.S. Army at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. He took basic training and military schooling at Fort Gordon, Ga., in 1950-52.

He served overseas in Korea with the 7th Infantry, 32nd Regiment, from February to October 1952. He was promoted to private first-class.

Barks is the son of the late Walter C. Barks. His mother, Mrs. Ethel Barks, resides in Greenville, Mo.

He is married to Katie (Clubb) Barks and they have two sons, Roger and Bryan.

Both are members of the Sons of the American Legion.

WILLIAM A. BARKS DISTRICT COMMANDER

Barks has many plans for the upcoming year, which will climax in May 1978 with a convention and parade in Granite City.

"The American Legion post supports Commander Barks and also is making plans for the year," a spokesman said. Post 113's newly-elected commander is Dave Clark.

William O. Canale of Granite City is adjutant of the 22nd District American Legion.

New rule to assist child care centers

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has announced the issuance of new regulations allowing child care centers to remain in the child care food program while awaiting a ruling on an application for tax-exempt status.

Program regulations state that child care centers and family and group day care homes must have, or be moving towards, tax-exempt status (under Sec. 501 (c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954) in order to qualify for the program.

However, due to circumstances beyond their control, certain institutions have not been able to obtain tax-exempt status within the 12 months allowed under current regulations.

So as not to penalize programs which have encountered delays in receiving tax-exempt status, the USDA temporarily is removing the 12-month restriction.

Department officials say they are amending this child care food program regulation without proposed rulemaking and a public participation procedure so as not to harm any participant by the timing of its issuance.

The 12-month restriction was lifted July 27.

In the near future, USDA will propose regulations that will require a reasonable amount of time within which tax-exempt status should be obtained. The proposal will allow institutions an extension beyond this new time limit, providing they can present evidence that circumstances beyond their control prevented them from meeting the deadline.

USDA will invite public comments on the proposal at the time of its issuance.

Law impedes freeing those cleared of crimes as insane

Governor James R. Thompson has certified legislation to establish court procedures for the release of defendants from mental institutions who have been found innocent of violent acts by reason of insanity, it was announced Tuesday.

On June 30, Thompson exercised his first amendatory veto on the legislation (SB-1143), returning it to the General Assembly for the following recommended additions:

1. Provisions for a pre-release examination by a psychiatrist
2. Provisions for a court hearing before any modification of the court's original order is made.

The legislature then made the additions to the bill which the governor had requested, clearing the way for certification.

"This measure will provide a judicial check against the risk that an unstable person, inclined to commit crimes, will be released from mental treatment facilities."

"The problem is extremely serious. Its genuineness has been underscored by tragic events of the recent past," Thompson said.

"Whether a person continues to need mental treatment is an extraordinary complex question that cannot be resolved by a judge without the input of special expertise."

Sen. John J. Nimrod, Glenview, introduced the legislation in the Senate and the House sponsor was Rep. Lee A. Daniels, Elmhurst.

Consultant, National Dairy Council

ADOLESCENT NUTRITION — I

"Eating Your Way From 12 to 20" was the theme of a national food writers' conference sponsored recently by the National Dairy Council. At the conference, eminent nutritionists aired their views on various aspects of adolescent nutrition and it was notable that a central message came out of all the talks—that our greatest need is to teach people, including adolescents, to select a nutritionally balanced diet from the four food groups—the milk and meat groups, the fruit-vegetable group, and grains.

FOR EXAMPLE, said Johanna Dwyer, D.Sc. of the New England Medical Center Hospital and Tufts University Medical School: "Take a cheeseburger with lettuce and tomatoes. The bread represents the bread and grain category of the basic four food groups. Lettuce and tomatoes fall into the fruit-vegetable category. Meat supplies the protein from the meat-poultry-fish group. Cheese represents the milk and milk product category. Your teenagers could eat a lot worse meals."

Dr. Dwyer also said that fatness "goes along with family" that it's hard to treat because you're dealing with whole families, not just children. She urged food editors and others to instruct adolescents in nutrient needs, rather than "over-consumption of calories." If weight reduction is needed, teenagers shouldn't follow dramatic diets. Just cut out 500 calories a day and make sure they get the recommended dietary allowances.

In discussing food fads, Dr. Victor Herbert, Vice Chairman of Medicine at State University of New York in Brooklyn, also attacked quack medicines, megadoses of vitamins and complete (no meat, eggs or milk products) vegetarianism as dangerous, particularly for adolescents.

"TEENAGERS, responding to peer pressure and to diet trends as a way of getting back at their parents, tend to adopt all sorts of exotic behaviors."

About half the college kids become vegetarians at some time. Evidence shows that it is not a reasoned nutritional choice. They are demonstrating their independence by not following family rules regarding food intake.

"They need a broad-based diet of the four basic kinds of foods," Dr. Herbert said. "Then they will be in good nutritional balance, with the possible exception of iron for teenage girls. That's why it is unwise to eliminate meat from the diet." Strict vegetarians also have almost no way of getting adequate calcium for bone growth, he added.

DR. HERBERT also said that after you've had foods from nothing wrong with some junk food like soft food or candy.

The comments of Drs. Dwyer and Herbert emphasize some of the reasons I continue in my column to urge the four food groups as a basis for sound food selection.

HALOS OF THE SUN AND MOON
Occasionally when we look into the daytime sky in the vicinity of the Sun or in the nighttime sky near the full or nearly full moon we see a faint halo of light around these two objects. This faint ring of light appears to have a radius of about 22 degrees; that is, the angular distance from the Sun or moon to the ring is 22 degrees as we see them from our position on the surface of the Earth. There may also be an outer ring — quite faint and hard to detect — that has an angular distance of 46 degrees from the Sun. (The moon shines too faintly for us to observe a second halo.)

The inner edge of the halo is always rather sharply defined and has a faint red tint. Succeeding colors from the inner to the outer portion of the halo are, in order, faint tints of orange, yellow, green, blue, and violet. The outer edge of the halo is fuzzy and diffuse; colors in this part of the halo are very difficult to detect.

The cause of the solar or lunar halos is ice crystals in cirrus clouds in the Earth's atmosphere at an altitude of seven kilometers (about four miles) or more above the surface of our planet. Light from the Sun or moon is bent (refracted) as it passes through these crystals; violet and blue wavelengths of light are refracted the most and red wavelengths are refracted the least. Hence, from our position on the Earth we have the impression of a faint rainbow that completely circles the Sun or moon. No special arrangement of ice crystals is necessary to produce the halo.

Old-time observers suggested that halos around the Sun or moon, which of course can be seen only when the sky is clear, indicate a change in weather. There is some measure of truth in these predictions because high-altitude cirrus clouds often presage other kinds of clouds and perhaps even precipitation.

North Steel City Belles win honors

Students from 11 states competed at Hastings College in Nebraska, and the Steel City Belles, Pom Pon Squad from Granite City High School North, surpassed all entries and returned home with two national first-place trophies to their credit.

The local 15-member squad collected the honors over 106 other high school students, representing squads from Colorado, California, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa and Wyoming.

The dance contest trophy, won two days later, was achieved for their interpretation of the theme from the hit movie, "Rocky". The girls devise their own routines to the music and were cited for their "uniformity of presentation, precision of movement, audience appeal in performance, hard work and dedication."

The competition was part of a week-long workshop at the Hastings, Neb. college campus. "A great deal of credit goes to all members of the squad for their dedication and hard work, and especially to the leadership for the outstanding contributions they have continued to give the members through the years," Robert D. Todoroff, North High band director, said.

The 1977-78 squad leaders are Laura Allen and Cathy Messina, assisted by Karen Hatters. Other members taking part in the contests are Sherryl Davis, Ruth Ann Hayes, Lynn Krystopa, Linda McCrone, Debbie Ship and Mavis Vaughn, seniors, and Jackie Boatman, Michelle Pittman, Rhonda Roe, Julie Rowden, Marilyn Szczepaniak and Laurie Webb.

"These wins are indicative of the quality of the students in our education system and, hopefully, reflect well on the quality of the educational program in our community," Todoroff said.

The squad was accompanied to the workshop by the director.

Transportation was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Al Rowden, Mrs. Donald Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Messina, Arnel Allen and Mrs. Adam Davis.

The Steel City Belles are an integral part of North's "Marching Band from Steeler Land" during half-time presentations at football games. They also entertain at basketball games, wrestling matches, pep rallies, parades and other functions.

The North Pep Band and the Steel City Belles Pom Pon Squad were featured in a "motion to music" performance this week at the St. Louis Convention Center during the "Salute to Granite City" day.

Couple charged in theft

Richard Calepili, 34, of 1225 Madison Ave., and Bernadene J. Qualls, 37, of 4294 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, were charged with theft after Granite City police alleged finding eight used car batteries in the rear seat of their auto near Houser Automotive, 1749 Madison Ave., at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Police first were told two persons were stealing batteries from the Houser yard and putting them in a white 1962 Chevrolet parked on Grand Avenue at 18th Street.

Officers found the parked car and said a man and woman approached the car. The woman identified herself and allegedly said she climbed over the fence and took the batteries because her car would not start and she needed one, police reported.

Officers also alleged she identified the white Chevrolet as being hers and said she handed the batteries over the fence to the man. Another battery was found in the alley near the car.

The two then were charged and taken to the Granite City Jail.

The incident occurred just 16 hours after officials at Houser Automotive discovered about 50 used batteries had been taken from the yard in a previous incident.

They notified officers Tuesday morning that sometime between 10 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday, someone climbed over the fence and removed 50 batteries with a value of about $700.

Funeral details are given in today's obituary column.

Playing Political Games With Judges

By John W. Gardner

It would shock many Americans to know that Federal judges—those black-robed symbols of integrity—are often chosen for their lofty positions on the basis of cronyism and politics. We'd like to think that our Federal judges are chosen for the highest considerations of personal fitness. But in fact "His Honor" may hold his post solely because he held the right political cards and played them shrewdly.

Theoretically, the President chooses federal judges. But by long tradition, federal judgeships are political plums that Senators are privileged to hand. Sometimes they hand the plum to a good jurist, sometimes to a political crony, sometimes to someone they're indebted to. A rotten system, but most Senators love it! And they'll hang on to it unless the citizens pry it loose.

Congress should pass a law creating a national system of merit selection of judges. But they're not about to give away their political plums.

President Carter, in his campaign, called for just such a national system, to cover not only federal judges but U.S. attorneys. But when he took office he decided not to challenge the Senate on their entrenched political privileges. He issued a weak executive order establishing a U.S. Circuit Judge Nominating Commission which does not cover either federal district judges or U.S. Attorneys. It covers only circuit judges. As for the rest, the President simply suggests to Democratic Senators that they appoint merit selection commissions in their states.

If Congress won't act, and the President won't act, there's still the voice of the citizen! When citizens get mad enough and raise enough hell, politicians listen. This one is worth getting mad about.

Right now we have an historic opportunity.

The U.S. Senate recently passed a bill creating 113 additional district judgeships (there are now 398) and 35 additional circuit judgeships (there are now 97). This bill (S. 11)—still pending in Congress—deliberately omits any provision for merit selection.

In addition to the 148 new judgeships, 23 vacancies exist in the federal district court and nine in the circuit courts. This means that in a time a quarter of the total number of federal judges will be Carter appointees.

It's a perfect moment to institute a new system! But politics as usual seems to be the order of the day, and nothing is going to happen unless citizens stiffen the spine of their elected representatives.

Tell your two U.S. Senators to establish for your state a federal judicial selection commission to assist them in making suggestions to the President of candidates for federal district judge and U.S. Attorney. If your Senators say that's impractical, tell them that their Senate colleagues from California, Colorado, Iowa, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Oklahoma already have established excellent systems for merit selection. Remind them that both the American Bar Association and the prestigious American Judicature Society are solidly for merit selection.

At a time when lawlessness extends from the lowest to the highest levels of society, a judiciary infected with cronyism and political horse-trading is intolerable. It's bound to increase the cynicism of citizens.

If you're fed up seeing politicians play their little games with our system of justice, you'll write soon.

Final '77 season play for Inter-City squads

Sunday's Illinois Inter-City Baseball League slate of doubleheaders is of a significant nature to at least five of the league's eight participating teams.

The final regular season schedule preceding playoff competition pits Panama against Highland-Pierson, East Alton Brewers against J&J Liquors at Collinsville, Mitchell Athletic Club against Thomas at Wilson Park, and Mercer Mortuary against the Music Room Vans at East Alton's VanPreter Park, all starting at 1 p.m.

The Vans clinched the regular season title early this week with a 23-3 record. Other squads are jockeying for position in the standings and battle in a four-team playoffs.

Waging a battle for second place will be Mercer with a 20-6 record and Mitchell with a 19-7 record.

A three-way race for fourth place will be decided Sunday, with either the Brewers (10-14), Panama (8-16) or Thomas (8-15) filling that spot.

Thomas' Jim Brawley views the situation as more crucial to his team than perhaps any other squad.

"We are in a do-or-die position right now," said Brawley. "Two wins Sunday combined with other teams losing would place us in the playoffs and give the Quad-Cities a triple chance of claiming the championship."

Recalling Sunday's twinbill forfeit to the Vans which decided the league title, Brawley explained, "It was a case where one player was late arriving."

"He showed up 20 minutes after the decision to forfeit was made."

Brawley believes the Thomas squad is capable of dealing strong Mitchell a double loss. He has decided to start Don Rains on the mound (3-2 record) in the first game and Stan Hale (1-3) in the bottom half of the twinbill.

"We have one of the best infielders around in John Pritchard, and Dave Melzer can be counted on for clutch homes," Brawley notes.

"Dan Bixler is a threat to any hurler," said Brawley, "with his consistent doubles and triples."

"And Bill McDonald despite his age of 33 almost always comes through with timely hits."

"Behind the plate will be Melzer, who we feel will stop Mitchell from running on us because of his strong throwing arm."

Facing Thomas' batters will be Jon Henke (5-2) in the opening contest and Ron Zambaldi (6-1) in the second game. Ready in a relief role will be Mitchell's Dick Fancher, who has a 4-0 record.

The two squads met once before during the regular season and split. Henke hurled Mitchell to a 1-0 win and Thomas won 3-2.

Analyzing his two hurlers, Mitchell's Ron Madden describes Henke's fastball as "a rocket taking off and then breaking or dropping at the last second."

"Zambaldi doesn't deliver as some as most pitchers," said Madden, "but he has good control and mixes his pitches well."

With the pennant race so close, Madden recalls a game in which mistakes helped the Vans win.

"It was a comedy of errors that led to our downfall that game," he said.

"The Vans loaded the bases, with Mitchell ahead 1-0 in the third frame."

"We committed five throwing errors on one play and when the dust cleared, three runs had scored on one hit."

"But our guys are approaching Sunday's games with the attitude that this is in a sense the first contest of the playoffs, and we'll really be concentrating."

Mercer and Mitchell will face each other in a playoff twinbill Aug. 14.

The Vans will open against the team emerging Sunday in fourth place, also playing a doubleheader.

The playoff tournament championship contest is scheduled for Aug. 28.

Free bowling, tournaments to aid muscular dystrophy at Tri-Mor

Free bowling games will be offered and two tournaments are scheduled Saturday at Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl, 3701 N. Main St.

All are destined to help boost the current fund-raising drive of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Thirty-two men and 32 women will compete in the "MDA Bowl" event in which men and women compete separately until the top finalists from each division are determined.

Freshmen key to '77 Cougar soccer outlook

Bob Guelker, veteran soccer coach at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has announced a 15-game 1977 schedule for his Cougar kickers as they make plans to start their second decade of the sport this fall.

Practice sessions for the unusually young Cougars will get under way Monday, Aug. 8, starting at 6:30 p.m.

The Cougars will play two exhibition games. First, they play a return match with the team that eliminated them from the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association) regional tournament at Bloomington, Ind., last November when they lost to the Hoosiers of Indiana University, 1-0.

Indiana eventually was beaten by the NCAA defending champion, the U. of San Francisco Dons, 1-0, for the national crown.

The matchup of Indiana U. and SIUE will be played at Evansville, Ind., Thursday, Sept. 1, at 7:30 p.m. The other exhibition contest will be with the SIUE alumni club, Sept. 17 at Cougar Field.

All but four of the Cougars' games will be on the road, starting with a three-game invasion of the East Sept. 7, 9 and 11.

Full classes open at SIUE on Monday, Sept. 26. The Saturday prior to that date, the always tough Hawks of Rockhurst College will be at Cougar Field for a 1:30 p.m. game.

Guelker's kickers will open Sept. 7 against nationally-ranked University of Connecticut at Storrs, Conn. The U. of C. Huskies were in the top 10 final national rankings at the end of the 1976 season.

Two nights later, Friday, Sept. 9, the Cougars will battle it out with the Rams of Rhode Island University. Rhode Island was ranked in the top 20 all last campaign.

On Sunday, Sept. 11, the Cougars will travel back to Connecticut to take on the Purple Knights of the University of Bridgeport, also powers in the East.

The other three home games for the Cougars will be the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle; Benedictine College of Kansas and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

The annual Illinois Governors' Cup tournament, in which SIUE's Western, Rhode Island Eastern rivalry battle it out, will be played this season at Charleston, Oct. 7-8. The Cougars won it last year at Northern Illinois.

For the first time in five years the Cougars won't play at St. Louis' Bush Memorial Stadium. Their annual Bronze Boot Classic with St. Louis Hazelwood Central's Matt Malloy, at the links are St. Louis U. High's Guelker and Aquinas' Bob Brazda, probably the most sought-after St. Louis area prep player in the past 10 years; and at back, it's Terry Trushel of Reary.

Completing the roster of first-year recruits who are sure to play key roles in the Cougars' future is Tim Clark, a mid-fielder and back who prepped at St. Louis U. High.

GREG MAKOWSKI

staggering. Not coming back are eight starters from the 1976 team, including the Cougars' two biggest scorers, Greg Villa (14 goals and three assists) and Tim Twellman (nine goals and seven assists).

Twellman graduated and Villa dropped out of school with a possible more seasons of eligibility left. Both Twellman and Villa signed pro contracts with the Minnesota Kicks.

Two brilliant defensive veterans, Gene Mishalow and Tom Henson, also graduated. SIUE's pair of offensive forwards, Chris Cacciatore (eight points) and Tim Holstein (11 points) also used up all their eligibility.

Perhaps the hardest to replace will be Mark Moran, now a starter for the Minnesota Kicks, who dominated the midfield for the Cougars for the past four seasons.

Back is two-time all-American Greg "The Face" Makowski, a back who can also penetrate downfield. He posted seven points on four goals and three assists during the '76 campaign.

Other returnees are: John Zachels, a midfielder, whose injury prior to the regional tournament game with Indiana was a devastating one, plus Hadley Koeller, Dave Hundert, Brian Higgins, Tom Donovan, Jeff Gallagher, Dave Hummert, Jeff Cacciatore, Gerry Howd and veteran goalkeeper Bob Robson and his sub, Marc Mason.

Guelker is obviously counting strongly on an incoming class of "blue chip" freshmen, including his son, Tim, to fill the gaping holes caused by the loss of Twellman, Villa, et al.

In fact, the coach has signed five members of the 1976 metropolitan St. Louis prep all-star team: at the forwards are Rosary's Don Ebert and Hazelwood Central's Matt Malloy; at the links are St. Louis U. High's Guelker and Aquinas' Bob Brazda, probably the most sought-after St. Louis area prep player in the past 10 years; and at back, it's Terry Trushel of Reary.

Completing the roster of first-year recruits who are sure to play key roles in the Cougars' future is Tim Clark, a mid-fielder and back who prepped at St. Louis U. High.

The team emerging victorious from the tourney here will advance to regional play Aug. 27-28 at Louisville, Ky.

The double-elimination meet here opens tomorrow with St. John playing Tri-City Team Two at 6 p.m. Second Baptist, colliding with City Temple at 7 p.m. and Calvary meeting Tri-City Team One at 8 p.m.

Community Heights will play the St. John-Tri-City winner at 9 p.m. tomorrow.

Winners of the Second Baptist-City Temple and Calvary-Tri-City One games will clash at 10 a.m. Saturday. That contest's victor will meet Friday's 9 p.m. winner in a semifinal contest at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Teams suffering first-round losses will have another opportunity to compete for the right to play in the tourney's championship game, set for 8 p.m. Saturday.

Opening-round losers will see action Saturday at 9 and 11 a.m. and 1, 3 and 7 p.m.

If a previously undefeated team should lose in the title contest, another championship game will be played at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Beary retains lead among cyclists here

Belleville's Rob Beary held onto his point lead Tuesday night with a runnerup finish in the main event during American Motorcyclist Association-sanctioned racing at Tri-City Speedway. He trailed Texan Terry Poovey across the finish line.

The two riders participated in a wheel-to-wheel duel throughout the 10-lap race on the quarter-mile dirt oval.

Poovey edging ahead at the checkered flag.

Back in the pack, Alabama's

Lance Jones and Ken McDonald waged their own battle for third place, Jones defeating

McDonald for that position.

Belleville's Greg Thompson

placed fifth and St. Louisian

John Smith sixth.

Heat race victors were

Beary, Jones, Poovey, Ed

Daley, Thompson and Vernon

Johnson of New Mexico.

Poovey, Jones, Beary and

Thompson also captured their respective semifinal events.

In recent weeks, Beary's consistent top finishing positions have warranted offseason pressure applied by Poovey and Jones in attempts to wedge the point lead from him.

Beary has 164 points, Jones

149, Poovey 136, Thompson 86,

Gary Rust 75, Garth Brown 68,

Rory Simmons 52, Reltz 51,

McDonald 44 and Guy McClure and David Rush, each with 38 points.

The feature race win marked

Poovey's fourth of the season

here, matching the number won this season by Jones.

Ranked 16th in national standings, Poovey, age 18, lost an opportunity to possibly improve his national position when he missed a point-paying event Sunday on the one-mile track at the DuQuoin

"Fairgrounds."

Defending national champion

Jay Springsteen of Flint, Mich.,

valued into the point lead past

Ted Boocky of Michigan and Kenny Roberts of California with a first-place finish at DuQuoin.

The racing program was marred by an accident during preliminary race which resulted in critical injuries to Jay Ridgeway of Decatur, Ga.,

a regular weekly competitor at Tri-City.

Ridgeway and Californian

Steve Eklund were battling for position when the injured riders' front wheels crossed and both were thrown into the air. Eklund finished fifth in the feature race behind fourth-place rider Gary Scott of Ohio.

Class AA teams

eliminated

Three teams of the Granite

City Park District softball program lost bids, during the weekend at Rock Island in the Illinois Amateur Softball

Association men's Class AA

state tournament.

Representing Granite City in the 34-team double-elimination meet were Sammy's Tavern, district champion here, Tri-City

Merchants and McDonald's.

Sammy's beat Kankakee 3-1,

but then lost two in a row —

24-1 to Champaign and 14-9 to the Old Pros of East St. Louis.

Tri-City won 11-9 over Moline and then eliminated Alton from the tournament with a 25-8 win

Sunday.

Final rounds of play are stated for this weekend at Rock Island.

Legion in division diamond competition today, hopes for another state title chance

Runners in the state last year, Tri-City American Legion Post 113 hopes to get a step farther to the Illinois Department baseball championship this summer.

But to earn a chance at state honors, the Post 113 nine, which includes many Granite City High School South athletes, first must succeed in Fifth Division Legion competition at Highland.

Season and playoff champion of the North Division of Legion Post 113 and district playoff titlist, Conrad Champion's Legionnaires are paired this afternoon at 1 o'clock against

Harbursburg, with Doug Rains pitching for Tri-City.

The local squad has won 26 games and lost seven, while Harbursburg is 30-12.

Also slated today are Carlyle

(44-9) vs. Carbondale (24-4) at 4 p.m. and Highland (25-17) vs.

the Post 113-Harbursburg victor at 8 p.m.

Tomorrow, it will be today's two afternoon losers at 4 p.m.

and the winners of Carlyle-

Carbondale and tonight's

On Saturday, paired at 4 p.m.

are today's and Friday's night

Study cost addition for GC town building

Action on a contractor's change order that would add $16,295 to the total cost of constructing the new township building at 21st Street and Delmar Avenue was delayed Tuesday night by City Council members convened as the Town Board.

The aldermen referred the proposal to the Building Committee with a suggestion that future change orders be referred first to that committee. The change order was submitted for S.M. Wilson Co., contractor on the township building project, to removing old curb and guttering and sidewalks along 21st Street from the alley to Delmar Avenue, and replacing it.

The replacement of curb and guttering and sidewalks was not included in the original contract bid of $69,949.

Henry Gabriel, architect for the project, reported that the additional $16,295 expenditure, along with $3,085 in change orders already approved, would bring the total construction cost at this time to $69,949.

Alderman Roy Poulos asked if "We are going to have these change orders coming every week."

In a related action, the Town Board approved on final passage a resolution designating Granite City

Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer as coordinator of requests for use of the town hall facilities when the building is opened later this year.

Bills payable out of the town fund amounting to $7,300 were approved by the aldermen, as were bills totaling $6,747, in the general assistance fund.

Bills totaling $103,801 to be paid out of the township's federal revenue sharing account also were approved. These included a payment of $101,593 to S.M. Wilson Co. for construction work on the new building, and $2,208 to Gabriel for architectural services.

Steel maker's viewpoint Freedom crisis may become worse than the energy crisis

(First of two articles by R. Heath Larry, vice-chairman, U. S. Steel Corporation.)

Just a few weeks ago we celebrated Independence Day. Not with the fanfare of our Bicentennial a year earlier, but we took note of it, as we should.

I used it as the occasion for rereading the Declaration of Independence itself — an exercise which I commend to you as a part of your annual celebration ritual.

Much of it sounds so current; timely; for example, the listing of our then grievances against the government of King George contained this: "He has erected a multitude of new offices — and sent swarms of officers to harass the people."

If you are troubled by OSHA, OEO, EPA, SEC, SBA, FDA, IRS, FTC, ETC., you can understand this point.

Declaring independence took courage, but building the foundation which enabled independence to remain meaningful — and by the U. S. I mean hammering out the Constitution and achieving its adoption, which consumed more than a decade — took men of genius, acute awareness of a sense of destiny and of an obligation to posterity.

I feel sure that anyone living through those years between the Declaration of Independence and the adoption of the Constitution would have been acutely aware of the years of critical crossroads in history.

A number of possible roads stretched out before them.

First, a time of revolutionary fervor such as gripped them early on could easily have become one of such continuing disorder as to have led to total anarchy.

Second, the very potential for abuse of newly-won liberties and the need for order in the fledgling society could have led back to monarchy or some other form of dictatorship.

Thirdly, the very difficulties of gaining a new political consensus could have led to a compromise upon something as loose and ineffective as the Articles of Confederation.

But they did none of these. They took yet a fourth: they toiled until they succeeded in achieving better than anyone ever had before, or has since — a relationship between executive, legislative and judicial branches of government, a relationship between federal and state governments, a relationship between public and private sectors, a relationship between political, academic and religious freedom.

A freedom of the market, whether for ideas or for products of private enterprise. What they wrought has survived through the years better than any comparable effort ever has.

This is the accomplishment that really deserves celebration. Unfortunately, it is obvious that in recent years we have begun to veer away from the legacy left us from those constitutional days.

In some respects, we must in candor acknowledge that it is with good reason.

The question is whether we have tended to become more complex, in large part because of the technological and social outfall from the simple fact of a burgeoning population.

Living together is just not as simple as it was in Washington's time. Expectations of the federal Presidency were such that he could remove himself from communications with government for nearly five weeks after his inauguration, and neither he nor anyone else was very concerned about it.

There is, to be sure, a need for more traffic cops, so to speak, at more intersections of society than in the earlier days.

The question is whether we can refrain from overdoing it, whether we can hang on to the fundamentals of the system.

That is to say, private ownership of the means of production, open markets, and the companion freedoms and responsibilities which are necessary for their support.

I am not alone in my concern. Fortunately, it is being voiced today in new and interesting places.

Who do you suppose said these words: "We are at a historic crossroad in our system — we either preserve our free market system or succumb to a quasi-socialist system." Sounds like a concerned and conservative executive. But the fact is, they were said on "Meet the Press" by Gary Hart, the liberal senator from Colorado.

The senator hasn't yet given up being suspicious of the impact of large corporations on the market.

But even so, he is now joining those who are becoming greatly disturbed by the enlarging degree of government intervention into and subvention of the market place.

Are we about to waste our legacy? The answer will depend upon the capacity of the leadership in government and business in our time to display the same capacity to avoid imprudent responses to immediate pressures — the same sense of destiny, of concern for posterity — that was displayed by similar leaders two centuries ago.

Unless there is some change in direction, I believe we may well be heading for a freedom crisis, just as surely as we have been heading for an energy crisis.

What does all this have to do with the steel industry? In response, let me start by putting another question. What kind of steel industry do you want here in the U. S. several decades hence?

If you want it to be owned by private investors? Do you want it to be owned by the government?

If you want it to continue to be made up of many competing entities? Or do you want it to be one large nationalized monopoly?

I am not suggesting that our government would deliberately narrow the choice. But I do suggest that if an industry as important to the basic economy as steel were to get into such a bind, the government would be compelled to move in.

Would that be good or bad? I would like to see a few people around who express a philosophical preference for such a result. But for anyone with an open mind, an analysis of the impact of government ownership would, I believe, produce a mixed verdict.

We have seen the impact of government ownership in different forms in various medical spectra — all the way from Russia to South American to Britain. I don't believe there have been any instances of overachievement by government management.

The more sinister implications, however, stem from instances of its underachievement, that is to say, just plain mismanagement or misassignment.

And the problem goes beyond the resulting economic injury. History shows it to be a genuine political hazard publicly to have to accept responsibility for such things.

Our governments go to great lengths to confine public knowledge when things go wrong. That leads invariably to forms of censorship which are not congenial to some of the freedoms we deem essential to a democracy and which presumably we want to retain.

In short, the burdens of ownership of basic industry do not rest easily upon our form of government.

Rather, their tendency has normally been to force the governments which undertake them ever toward a less democratic form.

Assuming we agree this is an undesirable road to travel, what then are the principal problems which might place the steel industry in a posture which would make traveling the road a possibility?

Steel has many challenges which are in common with other basic industries. But there are some which seem rather specific to steel, and I want to concentrate on a few of them.

The steel industry is highly capital-intensive, using extraordinarily costly facilities with a fairly long useful life.

The result is that its capacity to replace worn-out facilities out of depreciation reserves is eroded more seriously by inflation than in many other industries.

This is a special problem to be sure. But when coupled with a continuing public attitude — one which is magnified when reflected in the political process, which sees either an uncomprehending or hostile attitude to a price level or a profit level which would produce a competitive rate of return on invested capital — we have a super-special problem.

How many letters we have had from obviously sincere and lovely people, deeply concerned about inflation, challenging us in our company for having raised the price of steel.

Don't we realize, the letters ask, that we are the reason that all other prices in the U. S. rise? This is a myth we cannot seem to overcome.

It is as if no one understands that our costs of fuel, transportation, raw materials, labor and of services whether private or government origin, keep rising enough to squeeze our profit margin — so much that it becomes, in effect, no profit at all.

It is as if we in the steel industry were expected to be able to act like a massive break-water outside of a harbor, absorbing the impact of the pushing waves and tides of inflation as they break against us, but containing all of their force — allowing no ripples to pass on to the harbor beyond.

How often we have been singled out by government over the years for special constraints on our pricing.

During the periods of wage and price controls of World War II and Korea, our price increases were held to a fraction of the allowed wage increases. We lost ground again during the most recent wage and price board experience.

But, in addition, we have experienced Kefauver committees, Kennedy commissions, Johnson jawboning. There's a little improvement today — there is just a touch of Southern hospitality in the air.

Even yet, all kinds of their prices are being raised — all kinds of unions can enforce inflationary settlements pushing wages and tides of inflation as they break against us, but containing all of their force — allowing no ripples to pass on to the harbor beyond.

— with no Presidential notice. Not so for steel.

Why this should be, we don't understand.

We just don't have that much impact on total price trends in the economy. But the media keeps the myth alive.

The industry is still smarting under the experience of 1973-74 when domestic steel prices were still under government surveillance.

In the face of a most extraordinary demand, only foreign producers were permitted to charge what the market would bring — often as much as $100 a ton more than the price level to which domestic producers were held.

The industry is still smarting under the experience of 1973-74 when domestic steel prices were still under government surveillance.

PREFAB TEETH. In a world of condensed foods, ready-to-wear clothes and prefabricated housing, a researcher at SIUE hopes to add prefabricated dentures. Greg Stewart, assistant professor at the School of Dental Medicine, is conducting a study funded through a grant to test a company if it should distribute the new prefabricated dentures. They will cost about $150, can be completed in about two hours time, and may be tested on patients at the SIUE dental school next year.

Hope to cut cost of dentures

Research under way at the School of Dental Medicine at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville may make it possible for someone without any teeth to walk into a dentist's office at 9 a.m. and walk out with a complete set of dentures at 11 a.m.

Not only will the patient have a complete set of dentures, but the total cost will amount to about $250, it is being forecast.

Greg Stewart, assistant professor at the dental school, in conjunction with Paul D. Arnold, presently of Hudson Corners, N.Y., a dentist and formerly chairman of prosthodontics at SIUE, has been testing a revolutionary new dental appliance for two years.

Research has been funded through a grant by the Acry-Dent Supply Co. in Michigan and this year the grant was for $11,800.

Stewart said his research will test Acry-Dent if the company should distribute the new dentures. Basically, they are a prefabricated moldable prosthesis with teeth already set in them. They come in various sizes and — when heated to 155 degrees Fahrenheit — can be fitted right into the patient's mouth.

Basically, there is a three-step process involved in fitting the new dentures.

First, after the denture is heated it is molded to the contours of the patient's mouth.

Second, the denture is removed, loaded with impression material and put back into the patient's mouth.

Finally, through normal dental techniques, the denture is relined or rebased, ready for use.

"One of the big advantages for this new material is that it reduces chair time for the dentist and laboratory time," Stewart said.

"A completely edentulous patient can walk into a clinic and walk out in two hours time and walk out in two hours time with a complete set of dentures. This is a whole new concept in dental delivery.

"Total cost will be about $250 for upper and lower plates. It now runs between $500 and $1,200. Plus, there is so much time saved for the dentist and patient."

"Most of the cost for dentures is in the time that the dentist is heated it is molded to the contours of the patient's mouth."

If these experimental dentures sound too good to be true, Stewart said that testing is far from complete.

One of the big questions is how a product that is so easily molded to the mouth can take constant oral temperatures and the stress and strain applied to it when ensconced in the mouth without causing a misfit.

"We have to find out if they will work for five years — the average time dentures are expected to last," Stewart said.

"I can't tell you right now if I would put these dentures into my mouth until I finish studying the mechanics and physical properties."

"But I can tell you there are a lot of people in this country who do not get denture care," he said.

"Many poor people in nursing homes do not get denture care. With this, a good dentist could spend a day in a nursing home and provide good dentures for several patients who could not afford it otherwise."

"If these dentures have even 75 per cent of the mechanical properties of the heat-cured dentures (those that dentists now use), they may well be worth it."

He has been named Brad Michael. He weighed eight pounds, eight ounces, and is the couple's second child. They have a daughter, Nicole, 2.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves, 1624 Second St., Madison, and Mrs. Ray Crawshaw, Murphysboro, Ill.

They are also doing well in stress tests, tests on the effects of oral temperatures, deformations that might cause misfit of the denture, and tests on fatigue properties of the material.

If research continues to be so favorable, Stewart said, he hopes to begin testing the new material in the mouths of some patients from the SIUE dental clinic next year.

If all tests are positive, he believes the new dentures could revolutionize the field of dental prosthodontics.

"The demand for good dental care is so much greater than the supply that it won't be putting prosthetists out of business," he said. "But they will cut dentists' costs so much that dentures will cost less and dentists can still make a profit."

SON BORN JULY 29, NAMED BRAD MICHAEL. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Graves, 2332 Stratford Lane, are the parents of a son born July 29 at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

He has been named Brad Michael. He weighed eight pounds, eight ounces, and is the couple's second child. They have a daughter, Nicole, 2.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves, 1624 Second St., Madison, and Mrs. Ray Crawshaw, Murphysboro, Ill.

They are also doing well in stress tests, tests on the effects of oral temperatures, deformations that might cause misfit of the denture, and tests on fatigue properties of the material.

If research continues to be so favorable, Stewart said, he hopes to begin testing the new material in the mouths of some patients from the SIUE dental clinic next year.

If all tests are positive, he believes the new dentures could revolutionize the field of dental prosthodontics.

"The demand for good dental care is so much greater than the supply that it won't be putting prosthetists out of business," he said. "But they will cut dentists' costs so much that dentures will cost less and dentists can still make a profit."

Steps to renovate pastures

By KON CORNWELL
Madison County Agricultural Adviser

Late summer is the time to renovate pastures in Madison County.

I would recommend the following steps to establish a new grass, legume or combination grass-legume stand: (1) kill unwanted grasses and weeds (2) fertilize and lime the soil well in advance to insure desired crop yields (3) prepare a seedbed that is adequate for good seed soil contact and (4) seed the pasture early enough to allow plants to become established before winter.

Have your soil tested early. Samples can be brought to the Extension office and they will be sent to the soil lab for testing. It takes approximately three weeks to get the results of a test. The lab well ahead of when you need the results.

Too many times a person brings a sample to the office on Monday and wants the results by Friday. Samples can't be tested that quickly.

A soil test will show the amount of phosphorus, potash and lime needed to bring the field up to test. For legumes, enough lime needs to be applied to raise the soil pH to the 6.5 to 7.0 level.

Southern Illinois is not the only area of the state with a soybean cyst nematode problem. Cyst nematode has been found as far north as Vermilion County and plant pathologists feel the problem is farther north than Vermilion County.

To determine the extent of the problem an aerial survey is the best method of detecting central Illinois counties.

The nematode has been identified in five nematode-infested soybean plant roots and can be moved by anything which moves soil. About 95 per cent of the movement is done by machinery carrying soil from infested fields to non-infested fields.

It is important to limit the spread of the cyst nematode in Central and Northern Illinois because soybean varieties resistant to the pest are not yet available for these areas.

The nematode has been controlled in Southern Illinois counties through resistant varieties and crop rotation.

Phytophthora root rot is a disease of soybeans showing up in Madison County this summer.

Infections of this disease show up as scattered dying plants along the soybean field. The first symptoms of this late season infection is a yellowing of the leaves between the veins along the leaf margins. These symptoms are soon followed by a rapid wilting and eventually by plant death.

Phytophthora root rot can be distinguished from other diseases by a brown to black rot along the lower stem. The roots may appear normal since infections can take place via stems and leaves following heavy rains.

Fields of soybeans that are infected by Phytophthora root rot varieties should also be checked for this disease. There are 6 races of the fungus known and resistant varieties are only resistant to races 1 and 2.

Damage to soybeans from the two spotted spider mite is showing up in this area. The dry conditions this summer have been favorable for mite development. Check the edges of the bean field since damage is usually most severe at the edges instead of the center.

The mites are eight-legged, insect like animals that appear as tiny black, slow-moving specks. They make fine webbing on the undersides of the leaves. The mites feed by sucking moisture and nutrients from the plant. Mite infested plants are stunted. The leaves are mottled, yellow and will eventually turn brown.

A good method to check for mites is to place a sheet of white paper on the ground. Tap the leaves against the paper sharply. Then look for moving black specks. A 10 power hand lens will make it easier to see the mites.

Fields or field margins that are turning yellow or brown from mite infestations are candidates for spraying. For control, apply Cygon at half pound of active ingredient per acre or Trithion at three-fourth pound per acre. Trithion should be applied by a custom applicator or experienced applicator only because of its high dermal toxicity to the user.

Educators favor state structure

How do educators in Illinois view the concept of a State Board of Education and an appointed state superintendent of education? Quite positively, according to an independent study conducted by Wayne Musholt, assistant superintendent of Harlem District 122, Rockford, Ill., and recent positions stated by organizations of educators.

The Musholt study was prompted by an interest "in improving educational delivery systems in an economical manner." He collected data from a representative sample consisting of 49 regional superintendents and 86 local school superintendents from throughout the state.

Findings on state and regional educational services considered appropriate by the respondents were reported, along with ratings of those services.

Among the findings were: 1) "Both local and regional superintendents approved of the existing organizational structure of a state board of education with an appointed state superintendent," the report relates.

2) State and regional services most appreciated included state legal services, certification and placement of teachers, regional offices of education, safety and pupil transportation services, claims auditing, program planning and development, compensatory education and programs for exceptional children.

3) Among proposed services, those most wanted were the combining of all state and federal forms and 100 per cent state financing of all state mandates.

Cystic fibrosis tag days slated

Mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, neighbors and friends concerned with cystic fibrosis will conduct "tag days" Aug. 18, 19 and 20. The volunteers will have tags and canisters and will ask for donations to the Gateway Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Cystic fibrosis is a serious, lung-damaging disease for which there is no cure. However, through early detection and treatment, the lives of boys and girls can be extended and made more comfortable, a spokesman said. There are two CF clinics which the chapter helps support — one at the St. Louis Children's Hospital and one at Cardinal Glennon Hospital. Those interested in volunteering a portion of their time on any of the three days are calling the office at 314-721-2490.

Two new Shriners hospitals planned

The imperial potentate of the Shrine of North America, Fred R. Morrison, and the chairman of the Board of Trustees, Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, C. Victor Thornton, have announced that new Shrine Hospital buildings will be constructed at Chicago and at Portland, Ore.

Approval for these expenditures was granted by the representatives to the 103rd Imperial Shrine Session, held in July in New York City.

The new $11 million building in Chicago will be located on the site of the present orthopedic unit, 221 N. Oak Park Ave. Plans include a 50 to 60-bed unit for research into the causes of crippling.

The present building, constructed in 1926, will remain in use until the new facility is completed. The hospital is currently filing for a certificate of need from the Illinois Hospital Commission.

The Walter E. Olson foundation is contributing a $5 million grant toward the $11 million project. The Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children Endowment Fund will pay all other costs.

The new $6.5 million dollar building in Portland will be located on a yet-to-be selected site within a Portland medical complex and an affiliation agreement will be negotiated with that medical center. It will contain a research facility as well as 30 to 40 patient beds.

The present Portland orthopedic unit opened in 1924. The hospital is in the process of filing for a certificate of need from the Oregon Hospital Commission.

In other action, the representatives to the Shrine convention approved purchase of a $100,000 electron scanning microscope for the Boston Unit, Shriners Burns Institute, to aid in the units' research into better methods of burn treatment.

The Shrine of North America currently operates 19 orthopedic units and three burns institutes throughout North America.

Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children are open to any child, regardless of race or religion, under 16 years old. At each of them, the finest available orthopedic or burns care is given at no cost to the patients or their families. All costs are paid by the Shrine of North America.

Last year, the operating budget for Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children approached $40 million. Almad Temple participates actively in the program.

Bigger grant for experimental high school program at SIUE

A $134,000 grant to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will help area eleventh and twelfth grade students from low-income families increase their basic academic skills so they can succeed in college.

Elven Davis, project director for Upward Bound, an experimental high school program at SIUE, said this is the largest yearly funding from HEW the project has ever received.

During the 10 years Upward Bound has been in existence at SIUE, more than $1 million has been granted to the project from the government.

Over 400 students have been aided and, according to Davis, about 70 per cent of them have continued into college after graduation.

Extra funding this year will pay for breakfast, lunch and dinner for students from the East St. Louis, Cahokia, Lovejoy and Edwardsville areas. Davis said their school day is similar to one at their respective high schools.

"Our students still participate in sports, senior week and other activities at their high schools that we can't duplicate here," he explained. "Upward Bound is a 12-month program, and our students follow the quarter pattern of SIUE."

"They go to school from June to June, with 10 weeks of school and three weeks off," he said. "But they get in the 176 days required by state law."

Area high school teachers and counselors select students for the high school enrichment program. Counselors look for students from low-income families who have shown in improving their academic skills in reading, writing, mathematics and oral expression.

Attendance rules are strict, and students are expected to study at least two hours a day. All students have to maintain a C grade-point average to stay in the program, since the purpose of Upward Bound is to prepare students to succeed in a university environment.

"Anyone who cannot make the grade is sent back to high school," Davis notes.

"Although the main priority for Upward Bound is college preparatory training, values are also stressed, such as accepting responsibility."

"They have taken on a responsibility to prepare for college, and they do it on their own. If they don't, they'll have

Clarity in meaning emphasized by Shaw

The inability of many young people to communicate with clarity and correctness is a major problem in the United States today, in the opinion of President Kenneth A. Shaw of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Addressing the sixth annual conference of the Association of College and University Telecommunications Administrators last night at the Media Club in St. Louis, President Shaw said, "Technologically, we have come a long way, but there are still serious problems with the giving and receiving of information."

He warned, "These are, in effect, people problems, and they may be far more important than any new technological efforts."

In an even sterner warning, the university president declared, "An illiterate society with a democratic political system is in bad trouble. It is made to order for demagogues who use language to inflame and divide rather than to calm and unite."

Pres. Shaw added that a problem as bad as illiteracy is the use of big or ambiguous words to cloud true meaning.

"We often are stuck with people giving information and the recipient having to ask the question, 'What did he really mean?'"

The university administrator charged that "persons who use long, complicated language are usually hiding something under those elaborate verbal bushel baskets. That precious something is all too often the truth."

According to Dr. Shaw, "Hard, straight truth, even about complicated situations, can be conveyed in words we can all understand."

The president emphasized that the word "communication" covers both giving and receiving messages, and he said that for many persons, the greatest problem is "listening."

"We don't know how to listen," Shaw said. "Except for our technical ability to magnify sound and allow the near-deaf to hear, we have done little to improve the receiving of messages."

Continuing, the president said efforts need to be made to insure that persons involved in telecommunications are learning how to receive messages, that they know what they've heard and what they've heard is what was sent.

"The best way to avoid misunderstanding is to understand what someone else is saying in the first place," Dr. Shaw said.

"You would be amazed at how you can reduce the area for argument by listening carefully in the first place."

Citing dramatic technological advances of the past 100 years, from the building of the Eads Bridge at St. Louis to the modern day ability of man to communicate with astronauts in space, he praised "spectacular progress witnessed in communications," but cautioned that technology is not the answer to human understanding.

"Technology is not necessarily our enemy, nor is it inevitably our friend," the president added.

"Just as our sentences can become cluttered with too many syllables, so can our budgets become overburdened with too much hardware. In the last analysis, we are still faced with the duty to use language to convey authentic meaning."

Hope to use SUE gymnasium in 1981

Planning for a permanent physical education facility at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was given a go-ahead Sunday by Gov. James R. Thompson when he announced his intention to sign Senate Bill 314, appropriating $190,000 to the Capital Development Board. Now, it's a "full speed ahead" at the University in expediting the project.

A telegram revealing the governor's intentions was a highlight of State Senator Sam Vadala's (D-Edwardsville) annual "birthday party," sponsored Sunday evening in Meridian Hall at SIUE by over 1,000 friends and state officials from all areas of Illinois.

The governor said: "Dear Senator Sam: I would like to take this opportunity to tell you on your birthday tonight, that the first thing in the morning I will be signing Senate Bill 314, the $190,000 planning money for a physical education building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and Senate Bill 21, which conveys an additional 60 acres of land to the City of Alton for their city park."

"I just want the people at your birthday party to know that Senator Sam Vadala is doing an outstanding job of representing his senatorial district this session, and I am pleased to sign these two very important bills for him. Happy birthday, Senator Sam."

SUE, which occupied its permanent campus in 1965, is the only major state institution of higher learning in Illinois without a permanent physical education and recreational facility of any kind.

A temporary "bubble gym," completed in 1973, is nearing the end of its projected life span.

With the approval of planning funds, university officials have estimated the earliest the new building could be completed and operational would be the summer of 1981.

Construction funds are expected to be sought from the legislature next year, and officials are hopeful that actual work on the project can be undertaken in the spring of 1979.

The special Senate bill was introduced by Vadala and was handled in the House by Rep. Joe Lucero (D-Edwardsville) after planning funds for the facility were given low priority by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The bill sailed through both houses of the General Assembly with little difficulty. Area legislators, with the assistance of President Shaw and others, made a special plea to the governor to consider the request an "emergency" which must be dealt with as soon as possible.

Even with the bubble gym included, the university has a total of less than 25,000 square feet of physical education and recreation space available for 11,000 students — considerably less than any other state university in Illinois.

Dr. Shaw has said the lack of space has hampered the university's attempts to give adequate instruction in physical education and to meet the recreational needs of students. Further, it has impeded the development of a well-rounded intercollegiate program for men and women students, he has contended.

Deadline on revenue exam

Applicants for the 1977 special enrollment examination given by the Internal Revenue Service have until Aug. 15 to submit their application, Form 2567, recent photo of the applicant for identification purposes only, and a check or money order of $25 payable to the Internal Revenue Service.

Persons needing an application may visit the nearest IRS office or call toll-free 800-252-2921 any weekday between 8 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

The examination is given annually to qualify persons who are neither CPAs nor attorneys to represent clients before the IRS. The two-day exam will be given in Springfield Oct. 6 and 7.

Applications must include a recent photo of the applicant for identification purposes only, and a check or money order of $25 payable to the Internal Revenue Service.

Appeals board ok's 2 permits

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals has issued recommendations that the Madison County Board grant two requests for special use permits for the placement of mobile homes in this area, but deny two similar requests.

Recommended for approval are mobile homes at 123 Roosevelt Drive in Eagle Park Acres for the Roosevelt Baker family for up to five years, and to Lottie Gunnels for a unit next to 3301 Arlington St. in State Park Place for her lifetime.

The board recommends that a request by Paul Gunnels to place a mobile home beside Mrs. Lottie Gunnels' unit be denied, and that the County Board deny a request by Frank Gable to place a mobile home at 8509 Fairway in State Park Place.

The action brings the university a step closer to fulfilling a need which it says has existed for nearly 12 years.

Utility aid applications

Illinois Department of Public Aid officials are encouraging all public aid recipients who might be eligible for the Special Crisis Intervention Program (SCIP) of the Emergency Energy Conservation Program to apply for grants to offset last winter's increased heating bills.

Through SCIP, low-income individuals and families who meet the income qualifications specified by the federal government are eligible to have payments of up to $250 made to their utility and fuel companies.

Illinois Public Aid Director Arthur F. Quern says many public aid recipients were particularly hard hit by the severe winter weather earlier this year.

Since all Special Crisis Intervention Program monies must be distributed by Aug. 31, public aid recipients who believe they might be eligible for fuel bill assistance are to contact their public aid office as soon as possible. For elderly or disabled persons, outreach workers will be sent to their homes to certify their eligibility.

Quern said public aid recipients who apply for SCIP grants should bring copies of their utility bills and any evidence that can be used to verify their income for the past 12 months.

The examination is given annually to qualify persons who are neither CPAs nor attorneys to represent clients before the IRS. The two-day exam will be given in Springfield Oct. 6 and 7.

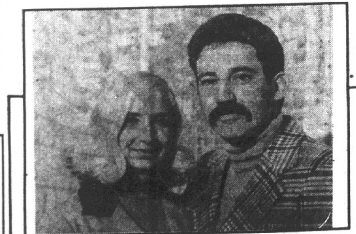

Applications must include a recent photo of the applicant for identification purposes only, and a check or money order of $25 payable to the Internal Revenue Service.

4-day week, solar energy bills would affect schools

Three bills with energy programs for schools passed both houses of the legislature this summer and are awaiting action by Governor James R. Thompson.

The new laws, which amend the State School Code of Illinois, pertain specifically to solar energy, four-day class weeks and energy conservation.

Senate Bill 889 calls for the State Board of Education and the Capital Development Board to establish guidelines for use of solar energy in schools.

Under the new law, the State Board of Education must present a detailed report of a pilot program for the implementation of solar energy in schools to the General Assembly by March 1, 1978.

The report would include an itemized list of costs, needs and projected savings of such a pilot program, and would initiate a proposal for its funding through grants available from the federal government.

There previously were no guidelines designed for schools to begin use of solar energy. St. Charles District 303 received the first energy grant ever awarded through the Capital Development Board from the federal government when it decided to include solar energy in the construction of a new school facility last year.

The new guidelines drawn up by the State Board of Education would outline how more school districts could obtain enough funding to install solar energy in their new or existing school buildings.

After last winter's energy shortage, the state legislature passed a bill which could help reduce energy costs for schools at the local level in case the same situation would ever arise again.

House Bill 491 would enable school districts to operate at four days a week, with one extra hour of class per day, when an energy crisis is declared by the superintendent of education. Neither the state superintendent nor the districts previously had any authority to do this.

The bill also includes legislation that would exempt local school districts from suffering a reduction in state aid, and would protect employees from loss in salary or benefits during the four-day weeks.

A bill signed into law, HB 691, permits school districts to use existing taxes for life safety programs for energy conservation, as long as the legal requirements for life safety procedures have been met. It allows school districts with a population of under 500,000 to continue to levy a tax for fire safety and use it for renovating or reconstructing buildings to maximize their energy efficiency.

State School Superintendent Joseph M. Cronin points out that "any project must be approved by the Illinois Office of Education before a tax can be levied and must follow the guidelines provided in the School Code."

These guidelines require a lack of funds in the operation, building and maintenance budget for the district, and a certified cost estimate of the project by a licensed architect or engineer.

Randy Hempel sings Monastatos; Amerik Kachigian and George Shanahan will do Sarastro. The priests include Ken Balster, Michael Christy, Robert Rignoni and Brian Ferris. Papagena will be sung by Marcel Hempel.

Insulation also helps keep out summer heat

Many people think of insulation in the attic as a way to keep out cold winter air. But it also works in reverse and helps keep a home cool in the summer.

It saves money by cutting fuel requirements in both seasons. You can save up to 30 per cent with just six inches of insulation in your attic floor. Adding it to the walls and even under the floors can save even more fuel and money.

If your home was built before 1940, it may not have enough insulation. If built after that date, chances are good that it does have insulation. Four inches in the walls and six inches in the attic should be minimum.

It's easy to add insulation to an attic area. Check the width of the spaces between the ceiling joists before you insulate. The length of each strip of insulation should be the length of each space between the joists.

Buy six-inch thick fiberglass or mineral wool insulation in rolls or batts. Be sure you can get the roll or package through the attic door before you buy it. Roll insulation is hard to handle in small attic spaces and, for these areas, 48-inch long batts may be easier to use. Use gloves when you work with insulation. Do the long runs first and don't push down on the insulation to stuff it in once it is in place.

Plan your work ahead and lay boards or plywood in areas you are working so you don't accidentally put your foot through the ceiling. Use a good quality safety light or drop light to illuminate the area.

Walls are much more difficult to insulate because the insulation must be blown or pumped in from the outside through holes drilled in the walls. Most homeowners may prefer to hire an insulation contractor to do that job.

Shop around for price and check out the company's background and references. As fuel prices continue to rise, cost of insulation will soon be paid out of the savings in fuel requirements for your home.

Required retirement in many large private pension plans

Private pension plans, especially those for large groups of workers, frequently have forced retirement provisions. This preliminary finding is based on a newly completed Bureau of Labor Statistics analysis of defined benefit pension plans that were reported to the Department of Labor in 1974.

The Labor Department reports that over 40 per cent of the covered workers were in plans with mandatory retirement provisions (compulsory and automatic) applicable at age 65 or later, and 10 per cent in plans that provide forced early retirement (at the employer's request) before age 65.

Mandatory retirement provisions specify the compulsory retirement age at which an employer can force an employee to retire, or the automatic retirement age beyond which the employee cannot retain the employee, or both.

While automatic retirement can never be delayed, some plans prohibit the compulsory retirement of workers with less than a specified number of years of credited plan service.

Mandatory retirement provisions were less common in plans negotiated by unions than in plans that were not. Over 50 per cent of the workers in non-negotiated plans were covered by such a provision, as compared to less than 40 per cent of those under negotiated plans.

To some extent, this difference reflects the fact that nearly all multi-employer plans, which rarely have mandatory provisions, are negotiated.

Plans with mandatory retirement provisions were more frequently found in single employer plans than in multi-employer plans, they cover a larger proportion of workers in manufacturing industries, where single employer plans prevail, than in non-manufacturing, where multi-employer plans are more prevalent.

Almost 40 per cent of the covered workers in manufacturing, as compared to almost 30 per cent in non-manufacturing industries except construction and transportation, however, at least 25 per cent of the covered workers were in this type of plan.

The high proportion of workers in communications and public utilities is accounted for by the Bell System plans, which have compulsory retirement at age 65.

Automatic retirement provisions, on the other hand, were most prevalent in finance and real estate.

Compulsory retirement ages were found in plans applicable to over 90 per cent of the workers covered by a compulsory retirement provision.

The most common automatic retirement age was 65, which was applicable to almost half of the workers in plans with automatic retirement provisions.

Most frequently, plans with both compulsory and automatic retirement specified age 65 as the compulsory age and 68 or 70 as the automatic age.

Although few plans had a mandatory retirement provision effective before age 65, many plans had forced early retirement provisions under which an employer can compel a worker to retire before that age. These provisions allow retirement at the employer's request before normal retirement age—usually age 65 and service requirements are met. Usually, long service was required.

Over three out of five of the participants in plans with forced early retirement are in plans authorizing involuntary retirement of workers age 50 with 25 years of service as well as younger workers with 30 years of service.

However, some plans allow the forced early retirement of short-service workers with 10 years of service or less, if the regular, early retirement benefit is supplemented, or if unreduced normal retirement benefits are paid. Unlike mandatory retirement provisions, forced early retirement provisions were found in plans of only a few industries.

Those applicable to long-service workers were primarily in the communications and public utilities industries, those for short-service workers, and in automobile and farm-equipment manufacturing industries.

Multi-employer pension plans, prevalent in non-manufacturing industries but not in manufacturing industries, rarely included forced early retirement provisions.

Most workers in plans with this type of provision were in plans financed solely by employers.

Energy exhibit at state Fair

Representative Joe E. Lucio (D-Edwardsville), chairman of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission's Intergovernmental Committee, has announced that progress is being made on the energy exhibit for the 1977 Illinois State Fair Aug. 11-21.

"This year's energy display will be even bigger than the 1976 exhibit with several new contributing exhibitors," said Rep. Lucio. "We are looking forward to a very interesting display this year. Several organizations and state agencies will be participating and we think we will have a display everyone will appreciate."

The location of the energy exhibit will be in the Early Illinois Building, previously named the Conservation building, where approximately 8,000 square feet has been allotted to the energy display. Rick Shaw, assistant director of special events at the Illinois State Fair, said "The energy exhibit was a welcome addition to the Fair last year, and it promises to be an even better display this year."

To be included in the display is a large space house model from Marshall Space Flight Center and a display by the Illinois Department of Public Health on energy conservation through insulation of mobile homes.

Also, the Illinois State Geological Survey is providing a series of maps on coal resources in Illinois and maps on the oil and gas industry in the state.

Again this year, the University of Illinois is sending the solar grain drying exhibit, which shows how the sun's energy can be utilized, through the use of solar collectors, to dry grain.

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA), and the National Aeronautics Space Administration (NASA), are both contributing several displays. These will include an ERDA display entitled "Energy in Your Future" and aerial photographs of the NASA Infrared Flyover of Springfield houses and industry, which indicate the heat loss from these structures.

Sangamon State University will show a slide presentation of the history of solar energy usage entitled "The Full Circle." Southern Illinois University will send displays from the design department there, one of which will be a hydro electric car. Also to be included in the exhibit are several late model high gas mileage cars and energy efficient air conditioners.

DIABETICS—CONTINUE TREATMENT, SEE DOCTOR
The Walgreen Co. has announced that it will continue filling prescriptions for the oral diabetic drug phenformin until the Federal Drug Administration order banning such sales goes into effect Oct. 24.

"Walgreen's is concerned that some of the 385,000 diabetics now taking phenformin will misunderstand the FDA statement and take themselves off the medication. Under no circumstances should this be done without first consulting a physician," says Mike Barnd, director of professional services. "Diabetics have nearly 90 days in which they should contact a doctor and arrange for some form of alternative medication. Insulin therapy and other drugs are available as substitutes once the ban becomes effective."

Passenger injured

Mrs. Cindy Lou Hensley, 22, Fairview Heights, was injured when an auto in which she was a passenger struck a utility pole on Nameoki Road south of Lincoln Avenue early this week. Medical A. d. a. m. s. Fredericktown, Mo., the driver of the auto, was charged by Granite City police with careless driving and not having a valid driver's license.

Mrs. Hensley was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was treated for small cuts to her forehead and was transferred to an Alton hospital.
